4 BRITISH SHIPS CAPTURED

TRIES TO RAM U-BOAT; EXECUTED

CAPTAIN OF BRUSSELS SHOT

Naval Court at Zeebrugge Condemns Fryatt for His "Crime Against German Sea Forces."

By International News Service.

Berlin, via Sayville Wireless, July 28.—Captain Charles Fryatt of the British steamship Brussels, which was captured by the Germans, has been executed, following the passage of a death sentence upon him by a naval field court sitting at Zeebrugge. The charge against him was that he tried to ram the German submarine U-33 on March 28, 1915, in the North Sea.

The following official version of the proceedings was given out today by the Admiralty to the Overseas News Agency:

"At Zeebrugge on July 27 there was a session of a field court of the navy corps to try Captain Charles Fryatt of the English steamer Brussels, which had been brought in as a prize. Fryatt was sentenced to death, although not belonging to the armed forces, because on March 28, 1915, near Maas fire ship, he tried to ram the German submarine U-33. Fryatt, the first officer and the first engineer received from the British Admiralty gold watches for "brave conduct" and were mentioned in the House of Commons.

"The U-33 had signalled the British steamer to show her flag and stop, but Captain Fryatt refused to heed the signal and turned at high speed toward the submarine, which escaped only by submerging immediately for some metres. Fryatt admitted that he had followed instructions from the Admiralty. The sentence was confirmed and Fryatt was shot for a 'Franc Tireur' crime against German sea forces."

Rumania May Join Entente, States Hale

By WILLIAM BAYARD HALE.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

Berlin, July 28.—Rumania may join the Entente against Germany. It is possible, but I believe, improbable. The thing hangs today in the balance.

The determining fact will be the military events of the next fortnight. During the past three weeks, these have been unsatisfactory from the Austro-German point of view.

Should Rumania decide to throw in her destinies with the Entente it would be another story of Serbia—sharp, quick work.

PILOT READY FOR DEUTSCHLAND SEA DASH

By International News Service.

Baltimore, July 28.—Paul Hilken, agent of the Ozean Rhederei, which owns the Deutschland, communicated with the Maryland Pilots' Association today. It is understood that he asked Captain Owen Coleman, the pilot who brought the Deutschland from the Virginia capes to Baltimore, be kept on call to take the submarine out of Baltimore harbor.

Captain Coleman was not free when the request was made, and the officials of the pilots' association said they would have to observe the usual rules and put the pilot who was due to go out at the time the Deutschland sailed on the submarine.

The request for a pilot led to a general belief that the Deutschland was planning to make a start for the open sea within twenty-four hours.

GERMAN SEAPLANE FIRED BY BRITISH

By International News Service.

London, July 28.—The British Air Board announced that a German seaplane had been hit and set on fire by a British aviator off Ostend.

The official statement follows:

"On July 15, a British Nieuport aeroplane patrolling off Ostend encountered a German seaplane manoeuvring, whereupon the British pilot looped over the enemy. Hailing, he thereupon opened fire on the German pilot. The machine, hit, vertically dived in flames."

DELVILLE WOOD IS TAKEN

By SYDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, July 28.—After a night of violent fighting the British forces north of the Somme now occupy the whole of Delville wood. The British War Office in an official report issued early this afternoon announced the complete occupation of the wood.

The greater part of Delville wood had been taken by the British on Thursday, after it had been raked for hours by guns of every calibre. However, the Germans managed to retain a small corner of it.

Fresh assaults were undertaken by the British and the Germans were soon driven from their defensive works among the blasted trees after fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

Strong counter attacks were delivered by the Germans in an effort to retake the wood, but all of these were repulsed.

GAINS AT POZIERES.

Delville wood lies east of Longueval and north of Waterlot Farm, about which there has been violent fighting for many days. It is on the highway between Longueval and Pozieres.

Renewed assaults in the region of Pozieres also won the British more ground and a gain was made near Longueval, the official report stated. Farther north on the battle front the Germans attempted a counter offensive and succeeded in entering British trenches near Neuve Chapelle, but were afterwards thrown out by counter attacks.

The gains of the British at Delville Wood, Longueval and Pozieres enabled them to straighten their line and gave them a firmer grip on the high ground for which they have been contending so stubbornly.

DRIVE OUT BRANDENBURGERS.

"After severe fighting we drove out the Fifth Brandenburg division that had retained positions in Delville Wood, capturing three officers and 158 men. The whole wood is now in our hands. Two German counter-attacks were beaten off with heavy losses.

"We have made further progress at Longueval Village and near Pozieres. At the latter place we captured forty-eight wounded Germans.

"During the night the guns of the enemy were active against our new positions. There were heavy artillery duels in various sectors.

"At Neuve Chapelle small parties of Germans succeeded in entering our trenches at some points, but were immediately driven out by counter-attacks, leaving some wounded.

"Northeast of Souchez and at other points our artillery shelled the enemy's front line and communicating trenches."

GERMAN WARSHIPS ACTIVE

By International News Service.

London, July 28.—A Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph says that four more British steamships, one of which is believed to have been a passenger vessel, have been captured by German warships.

One was released through the intercession of the commander of a Swedish torpedo boat. The steamers George Allen and Ambassador were captured off Landskrona. Two others were captured in the Cattegat.

The George Allen was released when the commander of the Swedish torpedo boat sustained the claim of the master of the British vessel that his ship had been captured in Swedish territorial waters.

ORCHESTRA LEADER GETS THREE YEARS

Providence, R. I., July 28.—Harold F. Oxley, an orchestra leader arrested early today at Westerly, charged with stealing three automobiles, was brought before Judge Elmer J. Rathbun of Superior Court today on a capias in connection with former automobile thefts, when sentence was deferred. He was fined $100 and sentenced to three years.

Oxley is the son of the late Ben Oxley of Pawtucket, for ten years president of Musicians' Union.

When Oxley was arrested the three autos were recovered, one of which is the property of Dr. Burden of Taunton, Mass. Sheriff John R. Wilcox is holding the stolen machines at Watch Hill.

WOLLASTON MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN

William Cochran of Beach street, Wollaston, received injuries from which he died, when he was dragged by a train today at the Wollaston station on the New Haven road. Cochran arrived at the station as the 11:35 train for Boston was pulling out. He ran for it and succeeded in obtaining hold of the railing by the steps. He was dragged for a considerable distance, receiving severe injuries. He was taken to the Quincy City Hospital, where he died.

SERBIANS REPORT BULGARS DEFEATED

By International News Service.

Saloniki, July 28.—A battle has been fought between Serbian and Bulgarian troops in northwestern Greece, in which the Bulgarians were defeated. The following official report on the engagement was given out today at allied headquarters:

"The Serbians engaged the Bulgarians, who were advancing through Greek territory, north of Vodena, near Sborska. After a sharp engagement the Bulgars were driven from their positions, which the Serbians occupied."

MERCURY TO JUMP SOON

The terrific heat which is now causing prostrations and deaths in the Middle West, is due in Boston Sunday, according to announcement today from the weather headquarters in Washington.

Dispatches from Chicago said that forty-seven deaths had been caused there by the heat in the past twenty-four hours.

The statement from Washington regarding Boston's prospect for sharing the heat burden was made by Chief Forecaster Frankenfeld, as follows:

"The States close to the North Atlantic coast are only temporarily escaping the hot weather. By Sunday the present conditions will change and the East will be as hot as the Middle West. There is no permanent relief in sight for any section east of the Rockies.

"We had just as well be cheerful about it, for the weather has come for a continued stay. In the Middle West temperatures are to be around the 100 mark for probably a week yet and when a change does come, it is probable that it will be gradual."

FAIR TOMORROW.

Greater Boston went to work today in a respite granted by the east wind from the humidity which caused one death and five prostrations in the metropolitan district the day before.

The forecast for today in Boston and vicinity called for unsettled conditions and light winds, with tomorrow expected to be fair.

The Weather Bureau at Washington gives out explanation that a "Bermuda High" is the official cause of the general heat wave.

SWEEP OF HOT AIR.

During all this month, the chief forecaster says, the huge body of high pressure atmosphere has been gathering over the Western Atlantic from Florida to Newfoundland and east of the Azores. It is very heavy in weight and thick in dimensions.

Heavy air always flows to a place occupied by light airs, but unfortunately there is at present an area of light airs in the tropics. When the heavy air arrives there, it finds there is still lighter air over the continent.

So it moves north in an enormous sweep, burning hot from the tropics and heavily laden with scanty humidity. It is distributing this heat and humidity over all the continental United States in what officials call the "Bermuda High."

Dispatches from Chicago today said that the 2 a. m. temperature was 89 and the lowest of the night was 86 at 4 a. m.

104 IN STEEL MILLS.

In steel mills on the South Side, Chicago, temperatures as high as 104 have been recorded, and prostrations are numerous. Chicago department stores operated with the smallest possible force and many closed earlier than usual.

East of the Rockies 70 was the lowest temperature reported last night. The coolest place in the country was Portland, Ore., at 62. Other coast points reported between 60 and 70.

Heiress Thought It Was Proper for the Married Fish Dealer to Visit Her

HERE are some of the striking statements on the witness stand today of Marion Pomeroy Smith, the Hyannis heiress:

My grandmother once threw fish at me.

I hired a cottage apart from my grandmother to live there and get some peace.

I thought it was proper to have Maurice Phinney, a married man with a wife and two children, call on me.

I love Maurice Phinney as a friend in the highest degree.

I did not love Jess, that I know of.

He declared his love for me.

I like Maurice Phinney as a friend since I got some of the world's experience.

I referred to Maurice Phinney as "Buster."

Maurice Phinney came into my life when all my own forsook me.

The charges as to my habits are absolutely false and too disgusting to mention.

Official Denial Given to Story of Bremen Capture

Sensational reports today that the German U-liner Bremen had been captured and was tied up at Halifax, the naval base in Nova Scotia, were followed by denials, both from Halifax and from Ottawa, the seat of the Dominion government.

The first capture story, coming from Halifax, via New York, said that the Bremen had been intercepted by a British patrolling squadron and had been taken to the Northwest Arm, an estuary of Halifax Harbor.

A message from Ottawa said that official denial was made there of the Halifax story.

The Boston AMERICAN wired its correspondent at Halifax about the reports and received reply that there was no truth in the story, according to Halifax officials, and that a visit to the Northwest Arm, where the Bremen was said to be tied up, disclosed no trace or even report of the U-liner.

Dispatches from Baltimore, where the U-liner Deutschland is still on the edge of departure, said that officials of the Deutschland Ocean Rhederie denied any and all reports that the Bremen had been caught.

Captain F. B. Howarth, of the Creole, was asked if his wireless had picked up any information regarding the Bremen. He answered:

"The Bremen is probably safe alongside the first submarine liner the Germans sent out—in British ha-is."

"Do you know that the British captured a German submarine merchantman?" he was asked.

"I have it upon excellent authority that such is the case," he replied.

BRITAIN BANISHES OPIUM AND COCAINE

By International News Service.

London, July 28.—The importation of opium and cocaine into the United Kingdom is prohibited by a royal proclamation issued today. The growth of "cocaine snuffing" has become alarmingly prevalent, especially among women, since the war started.

Minister, Worn Out at 33, Is to Quit His Pulpit

The Rev. Paul G. Favor, thirty-three, pastor of the Prospect Hill Congregational Church, Somerville, has resigned because he says he has reached the point where he cannot fulfil his duties.

His letter of resignation says, in part:

I have reached the point where I do not possess the physical or mental endurance I need for the performance of my pastoral duties in the church, and more especially for eager acceptance of the difficulties and opportunities which challenge me as your leader.

The Rev. Mr Favor was born in Lowell in 1883 and is a Dartmouth graduate. He is married. He spent two years as chaplain at the Massachusetts State reformatory.

People closely informed as to the church's affairs say they were no longer able to pay his salary of $2,500 a year, and that, though the church owns the residence in which he lived with his family, he has been compelled to pay rent.

"The Mesopotamian [illegible] Is quiet and unc[illegible] of our gunboats [illegible] banks of the [illegible] Our boats replied, inflicting [illegible] A naval officer and five men were wounded."

GIRL TELLS SECRETS ON STAND

Barnstable, July 28.—Marion Pomeroy Smith, the Hyannis heiress, who is fighting to have Charles C. Paine removed as conservator of her $50,000 estate, declared on the stand today that she loved Maurice Phinney, the literary fishmonger.

"Do you love Maurice Phinney?" Attorney Morse, her counsel, asked her.

"I do," she replied. She broke down and sobbed. "He came into my life when all my own forsook me."

Miss Smith told of the incident when she said Paine was "fresh" with her and she tried to slap his face.

TELLS OF FIRST MEETING.

Miss Smith told today of her first meeting Phinney, of whom she later wrote, "He has baby-blue eyes that I adore."

She was asked of her friendship with the Rev. E. J. Homes of St. Paul's Church, Montrose, and she said it consisted only of her sending him $2 for a contribution to a charity.

The court room was crowded today, most of the spectators being women who had come from Hyannis by train, carriage and automobile.

Professor George L. Kittredge of Harvard, a Sumner resident of the Cape, has been an interested spectator since the trial started. He was asked today why he attended the trial. He said:

"I like to study human nature."

How Paine, conservator of the estate, put his hand on her knee was described by Marion on the stand as follows:

"Shortly after he gave me ten dollars at my house, I went to his office to give an account to him of how I expended it. I was seated by his side in his office. I asked him if he would go to the bank vault with me to show me my personal property.

MISLAID KEY.

"He said that he had mislaid the key and could not find it. He said that he could not bother with me just then. He didn't seem to want me to go to the bank to look at the personal property. He was sitting very close to me at the time.

"He looked down at my shoes. He asked me where I got them. He said

CITY OF BRODY UNDER FIRE OF RUSSIAN GUNS

By International News Service.

Petrograd, July 28.—Despite the stubborn resistance of the Germans and bad weather, the Russians are advancing in the district around Kovel, in Volhynia and in the Galician frontier.

The War Office in an official report issued today states that further ground has been gained. The official report follows:

"We have made small advances in the section of Bukanovka, on the Stokhod, and Bolobanovka. Heavy rains are continuing, and progress is difficult.

"Caucasus front—Our advance into Turkey continues. We captured thirty-one Turkish officers at Syvlaski.

"Russian troops are now within five miles of Bayburt.

"Our troops have reached Mamakhatun, to the northeast, and are pressing hard the retreating enemy. The Germans and Austro-Hungarians forces defending Erzingan, Kemah and the outlying defenses are under the fire of the Russian guns and its capture is believed to be imminent.

"There is violent fighting north, east and south of Brody, particularly in the region south of Leshniow and around Radzivilov. (Brody is about 25 miles inside the Galician line and 40 miles more than forty miles south of Lemberg, the Galician capital, and sixteen miles south of the Styr river). The strategic value of Brody is due to the fact that it commands the Lemberg-Rovno railway.)

"The power of the Turkish army has been put to flight by the Russians, and the Turks are falling back in demoralized retreat on Devrik and Kara-hissar.

Berlin Admits Gain for Russians in East

By International News Service.

Berlin, July 28.—Attacks by British troops last night against German positions at Pozieres and Fricourt wood, between the Ancre and the Somme, were all repulsed, the German War Office announced today.

Attempts by the British to advance at Longueval and Delville wood were failures. At Neuve Chapelle the Germans captured thirty British prisoners.

On the eastern front, the report states, the Russians gained some ground near Svinitsky.

"West front—In the district of Neuve Chapelle a German patrol brought in thirty prisoners and two more machine guns, among the latter being three officers.

"North of the Somme the English line, including the Australians, is maintaining its maximum strength.

"Both on the day strong attacks were made, which broke down under fruitless. Several attacks were made in the region of Pozieres, which is northeast of it, but these also ended unsuccessfully before the German lines.

"At Longueval and its immediate west there were hand to hand encounters in which the enemy had no success.

"South of the Somme the artillery continues active on both sides. The only other activity to report from this portion of the front occurred near Roucourt, where the enemy made without success, to advance with hand grenades.

"Eastern front—Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg—The situation is generally unchanged.

"Army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria—The Russians delivered six successful attacks yesterday afternoon and evening, the Soborica Vysoka sector, west of Gorodistabe, using two new forces. Further attacks are now in progress. Attacking waves made only two divisions were rolled back several times before our positions on the Schidzhara river, northwest of Smorgon (eight (south of Baranovitchi), the enemy suffered very heavy losses.

"Army group of General von Linsingen—Russian attacks northeast of Sviniusky temporarily gained some ground for the enemy.

"Counter attacks are now going on. Near Postomyty, Austro-Hungarian troops drove the Russians out of advanced positions.

"Balkan front—North and northeast of Vodena, minor engagements have occurred in the foreground of the Bulgarian positions. The latter suffered considerable losses."

Casement Fails to Push Appeal

By International News Service.

London, July 28.—The Court of Criminal Appeals sat especially today to hear any possible applications that might be made in behalf of Sir Roger Casement, who is under sentence to be hanged on August 3 for high treason, but none was made.

When the justices entered court two letters were passed up to Justice Darling. He then announced that the court had assembled because it had been informed by a crown official that Casement's counsel had notified him that application would be made for consideration of some of the points mentioned in Casement's notice of appeal, which Alexander Sullivan, solicitor for Casement, had not argued.

Mr. Sullivar stated publicly in court that he had abandoned his intention because, after careful consideration, he had come to the conclusion that he would not ask the court to quash the conviction on these grounds.

The statement of Mr. Sullivan was not made verbally, but was contained in a communication to the court which was read by Justice Darling.

Justice Darling said he was not surprised at Mr. Sullivan's action, as the court held the opinion that there was nothing in the points mentioned.

WAR SUMMARY

The British official announcement as to the number of officers killed, wounded or missing for the first three weeks of July today make it possible to estimate the British, and consequently the other losses on the Picardy front in those three weeks.

The British have officially announced their losses in officers and men heretofore, so that it is possible to arrive at a percentage basis for comparing those losses.

Up to November 9, the British had lost—officially announced—21,317 officers and 476,753 men.

Among the missing, their losses were one officer to thirty-three men. Among the wounded, one officer to twenty-four men. Among the dead, one officer to fifteen men.

Their losses for the first three weeks in July were, killed 1,108, wounded 2,831, and missing 491. Applying the percentages on the first half-million British losses, one gets the following totals for British losses during the first three weeks of July:

Killed, 17,728; wounded, 70,040; missing, 16,691. Total, 104,462.

The British have been in no heavy fighting except in Picardy. So for the three weeks in July their losses in Picardy may fairly be estimated at 100,000 men.

The French have fought on a shorter front, and have met less vigorous resistance. Their losses have been perhaps 50,000.

Experience in the war proves that defenders and attackers lose in a ratio of 2 to 3. Therefore, the total losses in Picardy may be estimated thus:

British	100,000
French	50,000
Germans	100,000
Total	250,000

There has been desperate fighting on the British front in Picardy during the past twenty-four hours, in the course of which the British have made slight gains.

Aside from the capture of Pozieres, however, the situation here has not appreciably changed for ten days. Longueval and Delville wood remain a centre of the fiercest struggle, where the first British successes in the capture of the wood were later cut in half by German counter-attacks. At present the wood and most of the village lie with the British.

The Russians made no claims of great importance today, but the Austrians admitted a further retreat northeast of Brody. It now seems probable that that city will shortly fall into Russian hands, as it is unlikely that the Austrians will choose to defend the city itself once the lines outside it have been passed.

The French made a vigorous attack near Fleury, at Verdun yesterday, but were repulsed.

DELVILLE WOOD CAPTURED BY BRITISH

ern front have taken the offensive. The official communique issued by the War Office today states that the Russians raided German trenches in the Champagne district, capturing some prisoners. The German Crown Prince renewed his efforts on the Verdun front last night, but failed to obtain any advantage. On the right bank of the Meuse the Germans attacked French positions, but the attacks were repulsed.

The text of the official communique follows:

"North of Chaulnes (on the Somme front), an attack by the enemy on a trench near Lihons was repulsed with rifle fire.

"In Champagne, in the region of Ashevine, a Russian reconnoitering party penetrated into an enemy trench, clearing it of defenders with grenades and bringing back some prisoners.

"On the right bank of the Meuse, a German attack which was preparing to debouch against our positions West of the Thiaumont work was completely stopped by the violent fire of our batteries.

"The night was calm on the rest of the front.

"Our aeroplane pilots fought a number of combats yesterday. Two German aeroplanes were brought down on the Somme, one near Ivrie, the other in the direction of St. Christ. A third enemy machine, attacked in the Verdun region, descended at Brille, south of Orion.

"In the Vosges an aviator, forced to abandon the fight, came heading to earth.

"On the night of July 26 one of our squadrons threw projectiles of heavy calibre on the railways north of Fergnier, the Chauny railroad station and convoys on the march in the region of Coucy. Between Laon and Rheims our aeroplanes bombarded military establishments at Menneville and Lavannescourt."

Italians Extend Alpine Positions

By International News Service.

Rome, July 28.—Powerful attempts by the Austro-Hungarians to regain lost ground in the sectors of Monte Zebio and Monte Zebio by means of counter attacks were ended in failure, the Italian War Office announced today. The Italians have extended their position in the zone of Monte Cebiricon.

Artillery duelling is reported from Stelvio and the Arsa valley.

The text of the official report follows:

"At Stelvio and the region of Val Arsa there are artillery duels. On Wednesday night the enemy attacked in force our positions at Monte Seluggio in the Posina Valley, and Monte Zebio on the Sette Comuni plateau. All the attacks were repulsed with heavy losses.

GINNELL GIVEN CHOICE OF FINE OR JAIL

By International News Service.

London, July 28.—Laurence Ginnell, an Irish Nationalist member of the House of Commons, was today sentenced in Bow street court to pay a fine of £50 or serve six weeks' imprisonment for attempting to gain entrance to the Knutsford detention barracks under false pretences.

There are a number of captured Irish rebels confined at Knutsford. Ginnell's plea said, gave the name of "Holmes MacFinnall."

Counsel for the crown said that Ginnell visited Irish prisoners in Stafford and made a speech in which he said: "They had done more for the Irish cause than any one else," and that they were martyrs."

The authorities issued an order prohibiting him from visiting camps where Irish prisoners were detained. In spite of this, Ginnell visited Wandsworth, where there was a disturbance among the prisoners, who carried Ginnell upon their shoulders.

Ginnell's defence, offered at the first session of the hearing was a denial of the false pretence charge. He said he was merely using the Gaelic translation of his name.

It was the defendant who caused an uproar in the House of Commons yesterday, and whose disorderly conduct, while discussing Irish affairs, compelled a temporary suspension of the house.

'STAND FIRM,' KAISER'S APPEAL

London, July 28. — A letter from Kaiser Wilhelm passionately appealing to the German people to stand firm and unwavering, no matter how the tide of battle flows, has been printed in all the German papers. The letter was circulated by the semi-official Wolff News Agency.

Dated from the front in the west, the letter says in part:

"The battle is raging, huge beyond all previous imagination. Rejuvenated, perfectly equipped with all they want, Russia's armies again have broken against our bulwarks in the east. This has eased the situation for Italy. France has experienced a regeneration in this war of which she hardly believed herself capable. She has dragged her dilatory English ally into joining the offensive on the Somme and whatever inward worth the British army has it now has an abundance of artillery.

"EVERYTHING AT STAKE."

"The iron hurricane rages against our brave German men at the Somme. Negroes and white men come upon us in wave after wave, in ever fresh storms, wild and sullen. Everything is at stake. The ice cold hatred-barbers on the Thames yearn for our holiest things. The health and life of our women and our children is menaced. Even neutrals must hear hunger. Only the depths of the ocean are now open to us. Should we be victorious there is threatening a 'war after the war' when the best energies and power of the nation now expressed by its joy in arms, shall be razed to the utmost to meet raw force, hatred and calumny.

"What, German people, is your duty in this hour? The army wants no exhortations. It has fought superhumanly. It will fight until final victory. But the people at home—this is their duty. To suffer in silence, to bear their renunciations with dignity.

"WE MUST CO-OPERATE."

"Those at home are not all doing these things. Not all are alive to the tremendous seriousness of the times. Are our people at home the same people as at the beginning of the war? The writer fears not. Let us remember that this is no ordinary rupture of ordinary life. It is the hour of destiny for our Fatherland, the hour which will influence us for centuries. We must unite in opposition to the entire world. We must all co-operate in the struggle.

"Any man or woman who hangs his or her head or suffers despondency to enter his soul is guilty now of treason. Every word of complaint or discouragement is a crime against our fathers, our sons and our brothers. Let us show the greatness of the German nation. Do not jeopardize everything by petty squabbling. It is no time for internecine strife. Rise it is time for holding together. In this hour the best blood of the nation, mature men and budding youths are presenting their breasts to the iron hail of the English, Russian and African hordes. Everything is at stake."

NORMAN PRINCE VICTOR

Boston friends of Norman Prince, who is flying for France, were interested today in the details of a stirring air encounter in which he and two other French aviators participated, with three German machines as their antagonists.

Prince, Kiffin Rockwell (another American), and Lieutenant de Laage were on scouting duty behind the German lines when they were attacked by the three German machines.

Prince and Lieutenant de Laage with their two opponents veered off to one side, while Rockwell circled and climbed, so as to dive on his antagonist.

The three German planes turned their attention to the two remaining French air craft. Then Rockwell, who had climbed 500 feet above the battling planes, dove, swooped under one of the German machines, and with the fire from his mitrailleuse raked the German machine from tail to motor.

He had attacked from behind; and he cut so closely under the other machine that his propellor barely missed striking it.

As he swept out in front of the German he looked back to find himself looking squarely into the barrel of the German mitrailleuse. He expected a storm of bullets; but a second glance showed the operator of the gun lopped over in his seat, obviously either dead or fatally wounded.

The German machine planed downward, the other two fled and the three French planes held the field.

Norman Prince is the son of F. H. Prince, Boston banker, and the nephew of Dr. Morton Prince. He recently visited his family here. He has been honored with "La Croix de Guerre" for his services to France.

CONFEREES BUSY ON THE NAVAL BILL

Washington, July 28.—After several hours' discussion the naval bill conferees today agreed on a number of minor features of the measure. The building program probably will not be reached before tomorrow. The conferees decided not yet to make public the details of their agreement.

It became known today that the Senate conferees will use the essens o the British-German naval battle of Jutland as arguments in their contention that dreadnoughts form the "backbone of the navy."

POSSES HUNT LOST MAN IN NEWBURY

Haverhill, July 28.—Posses of citizens searched the woods to the Merrimac bridge today for Fred H. Stevens, 58, the son of W. H. Stevens, of Kent's court, West Newbury, who has been missing since Wednesday afternoon.

Stevens had been ill for nearly a month. Wednesday he told his father that he had taken oxalic acid. His father ran out to get a doctor. When he returned with the doctor his son had disappeared.

TENSION WIRE BURNS YOUTHS ON FREIGHT

New Haven, Ct., July 28.—Michael Sloka, eighteen, and Walter Mykusky, while stealing a ride on a freight train, came in contact with the high tension wires, carrying 14,000 volts, and were terribly burned, probably fatally.

MRS. WYLIE WINS PLEA FOR DIVORCE

Washington, July 28.—Another chapter was written in one of the most noted of Washington's social tragedies, when Justice Gould of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia granted a divorce to Mrs. Catherine V. H. Wylie from Horace Wylie, son of the distinguished jurist who presided at the trial of Charles J. Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, and in other noted cases.

Horace Wylie eloped about five years ago with Mrs. Helena Hoyt Hichborn, wife of Philip Hichborn, Jr., son of the late Rear Admiral Hichborn, for many years chief constructor of the United States navy.

Two Women, as in Story of King Solomon, Claim to Be Mothers of Baby

Margaret Ryan, Canadian girl, and one of the two women who claim parentage of same baby in remarkable Chicago case.

Chicago, July 28.—The same kind of a problem that vexed King Solomon came before United States District Judge Landis when he resumed the hearing of the claims of rival women to "baby irene."

Motherhood of the baby, who is just past her first birthday anniversary, is claimed both by Mrs. Anna Dollie Ledgerwood Matters and Margaret Ryan, the latter a Canadian girl, who is attempting to gain possession of the child through a writ of habeas corpus.

Both women declared that she had been "coached" in the previous trial by attorneys for Mrs. Matters. Judge Landis ordered that subpoenas be issued for three attorneys and Charles T. Mellen, a detective employed by Mrs. Matters.

The witness was Miss Marie Louise Des Rosiers, head nurse of the Misericordia Hospital in Ottawa, Ont. She related how the baby had been taken from Margaret Ryan immediately after its birth and given to Mrs. Matters. She said:

Mrs. Matters came to the hospital and told me that if I didn't testify that the baby belonged to her she would hasten the reputation of the hospital and the sisters.

"Were you paid any money?" asked the judge.

"No, sir. I was promised some, but I would not accept it."

Miss Des Rosiers testified that fear prompted her to tell falsehoods in the early stages of the case and then soon the charge that resulted in the summoning of Mrs. Matters' former attorneys.

FIGHT OVER ESTATE.

Frederick Matters, a wealthy theatre owner, was more than twice the age of his wife. He died January 4, 1915, and by a prenuptial agreement the widow was given $6,000. The remainder, amounted to something more than $200,000.

Matters, however, by will, left the widow all his estate. A legal contest developed when attorneys representing James Matters, brother, living in California, and Mrs. Carolyn Wilson of Charlottesville, Va., relatives, declared the will void.

In September Mrs. Matters sought to be appointed administratrix of the estate on the ground that she had given birth to a posthumous child. Miss Des Rosiers, head nurse of the Misericordia Hospital, Ottawa, swore in court that the baby was born to Mrs. Matters there. A number of nurses also testified that Mrs. Matters was the mother of the baby. Later all these witnesses admitted that they had perjured themselves.

Mrs. Matters was indicted on charges of conspiracy to foist a false heir, to suborn perjury, to commit perjury, to obstruct justice, to obtain $100,000, and to defraud other heirs. Margaret Ryan was persuaded to sacrifice publicly her reputation during the perjury trial.

Mrs. Matters was found not guilty, but the jury decided that the child was the daughter of Margaret Ryan.

FIND DOG THAT BIT MAN HAD RABIES

The State Board of Animal Industry, after an examination of the head of the fox terrier that Monday evening bit William H. Glidden of No. 41 Washington avenue, Chelsea, as he was entering his home, today reported that the animal had rabies. They advised Mr. Glidden to take the Pasteur treatment. The Chelsea police sent out a warning against stray dogs.

REUNION TONIGHT OF HOLBROOK PARISH

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald is to be a guest tonight at the annual reunion of St. Joseph's parish, Holbrook. The Rev. John A. Sheridan, formerly of Jamaica Plain, pastor of the church, is at the head of the reunion committee, which includes some 200 members. The proceeds are to be devoted to the cost of finishing and furnishing the upper church.

RUSSELL DENIED PASSPORT TO TALK HERE

Bertrand Russell, a former lecturer at Cambridge University, England, who has been refused a passport to come to America, is well known in Boston, where he visited three years ago, when he gave a course of lectures at Harvard.

When he recently applied for a passport to visit America, where he is scheduled to give a second course of lectures on philosophy at Harvard beginning next February, his application was refused.

Russell, who is entitled to the title of Honorable, is also the only brother and heir presumptive of Earl Russell, was recently fined $500 for having written a leaflet defending the conscientious objector to service in the British army.

Mr. Russell is one of a thousand men who have been arrested for proclaiming such opinions. He is a member of the No-Conscription Fellowship.

Mrs. Russell was in this country recently gathering funds for the ambulance hospital which British women are maintaining in Russia. She is said to be in thorough accord with her husband's views, and both are ready to accept any fate rather than deviate from their principles.

CALL MEN DE SAULES TO FIGHT PLAGUE

By International News Service.

New York, July 28.—The country's leading scientists are to be summoned to New York to aid in the fight on the infantile paralysis. At the request of Dr. Hiram Emerson, Commissioner of Health, the Board of Estimate tonight voted unanimously to provide funds for the conference. Dr. Emerson said to Mayor Mitchel:

There are fifteen to twenty men from Chicago and Boston in the medical centers who have made important contributions to various phases of preventive medicine.

I believe that their presence here in New York for two or three days would result in organized efforts in various laboratories to supplement the work now done under the committee in research in this city.

The epidemic shows a slight decrease. There were 134 new cases and 31 deaths. The total number of cases is 2,345 and deaths 749.

Further development of the adrenalin treatment suggested by Dr. Meltzer, of the Rockefeller Institute, was given by Dr. E. J. Berningham, executive surgeon of the New York Throat, Nose and Lung Hospital. Dr. Berningham said:

We find that Dr. Meltzer's theory has been sustained. We will not say proven, because fifty cases cannot make such an important matter.

Fifty cases have had the intraspinal injections every six hours day and night. We have had no ill effects, and the improvement in all the cases has been so marked that all acute symptoms have subsided in thirty-five cases, and only fifteen cases (including new admissions) are given the injection.

Dr. Charles E. Banks, senior surgeon of the public health service, gave these two bits of advice:

Plague Appears in Three More Places

Ruth Gallagher of Lawn street, Roxbury, has been reported to be suffering from infantile paralysis. This, with three other cases for the day, one in Somerville, one in Peabody and one in Winthrop, brings the total number of positive cases in the State to date to eighty-six.

In Somerville George R. Sturtevant is said to be the sufferer, while in Peabody the case is that of Kalil Langren. The Webster case is that of Clarence Smith.

Despite these three additions, health officials are of opinion that nothing approaching an epidemic of the disease will visit Boston.

TINKHAM ACTS FOR IRISH FUND PARTY

Washington, July 28.—Congressman Tinkham has asked President Wilson and Acting Secretary of State Polk to take steps with the British government to rescind their unfair act in preventing Mr. Gerry of a representative committee of the Irish Relief Fund.

The Boston Congressman told the Washington officials that numerous protests were being received by him indicating a deep feeling of resentment among Massachusetts citizens regardless of choice, creed or party distinctions as being highhanded interference with an American mission confined solely to mercy and charity.

GIRL, WADING, STEPS IN HOLE, DROWNS

Greenfield, July 28.—Alice Millett, seventeen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Thomas Lavin of Shattuck street, was drowned in Green river, a short distance below the Colrain street bridge this afternoon. Her brother, Eugene Hoag in California, and Mrs. Carolyn Wilson of Charlottesville, Va., relatives, declared the will void.

The girl stepped into a hole and dragged the other girl down with her.

Miss Des Rosiers, head nurse of the Misericordia Hospital, Ottawa, swore in court that the baby was born to Mrs. Matters there. A number of nurses also testified that Mrs. Matters was the mother of the baby. Later all these witnesses admitted that they had perjured themselves.

PILOT RULES IN HARBOR BROKEN

The Committee on Maritime Affairs of the Boston Chamber of Commerce has complained to the superintendent of steam vessels at Boston that day boats and tugs are constantly violating the pilot rules in Boston harbor in order to make short cuts from place to place, and that the dangerous practice has nearly resulted in collision a number of times.

ETONIAN IN PORT, DELAYED BY FOG

The Leyland liner Etonian, from London, arrived in port today, after having spent twenty-four hours hovering about the Boston lightship in the fog. She should have come into port early yesterday, if she could have located the lightship. The officer of the ship says they have extended out to sea for a distance of 500 miles.

12 AUTOISTS FINED IN CHELSEA COURT

Eight autoists were fined $5 each in the Chelsea court today for failure to display lights. Four others were fined $3 for failing to light their lamps, one was fined $1 for not cleaning his number plate, and two cases were placed on file.

Third Shellac Plant Fire.

Fall River, July 28.—For the third time in a week the plant of the Bay State Shellac Company was visited by fire. The total damage in the three fires, according to estimates, is over $60,000.

DE SAULES SUED FOR DIVORCE

By International News Service.

New York, July 28.—John L. de Saulles, famous Yale quarterback of a decade ago, has been sued for divorce in the Supreme Court by Mme. Gertrude Vergara de Saulles. She is the Chilean heiress whom he married while engaged in business in Chili.

De Saulles was recalled from Chili by William F. McCombs during Wilson's presidential campaign. He organized the College Men's League, enlisting 10,000 graduates and students in the fight for Wilson's election. After the inauguration President Wilson appointed him to Uruguay. The Senate confirmed the appointment but de Saulles resigned to engage in the real estate business here.

Mrs. de Saulles' father is one of the richest men in the Andes. One of her uncles was a former president of Chili. De Saulles married his Chilian bride on December 14, 1911.

STORY OF COURTSHIP.

"I made up my mind that the senorita was the loveliest girl in the world and that I wanted her for my wife. It was no easy matter to get her, for she had suitors galore, and even then she hadn't made up her mind to marry.

"She had just returned from an English finishing school, but she could play a better game of billiards than I. As for the piano, well, her maestro in Paris told me she was the most brilliant pupil and would have a great career, if she chose it. And she speaks five languages fluently. So, to gain her hand in marriage, you see, was a task for a hero.

WILL DENY CHARGES.

"The senorita and her mother set sail in November for Paris on a shopping trip. I stood it as long as I could, and then I took steamer after them for Paris. Her mother who is adorable, liked me and finally she consented to our marriage. It was performed in the English chapel on the Avenue Hoche."

In her divorce complaint, Mrs. De Saulles alleged her husband has entertained two women in various cities in the United States. She asks the custody of their child. The names of the "other women" are not mentioned in the complaint, but they are said to be well known Broadway dancers.

Dr. Saulles when seen at the law office of Hecksher & De Saulles on Fifth avenue said he was "most unfortunate," but declined to make any other statement.

Through his attorney he will file an answer denying the charges. He is a member of the Yale Club and his wife is living at a hotel.

PROBE CHICAGO REVENUE GRAFT

Chicago, July 28.—Irregularities involving thousands of dollars have been discovered in the offices of the Internal Revenue Service in Chicago. A three-fold investigation is under way. Already grafting by deputies and shortages in accounts of half a dozen clerks, ranging from $15 to $100, are said to have been disclosed. The first arrest was that of John J. Shaughnessy, deputy collector under the chief of local revenue agents, on a charge of using his position to extort money from saloonkeepers.

COLE URGES STATE PAY MILITIA FARES

Adjutant-General Cole said today, commenting on the ruling that men mustered out of the National Guard because they have dependent families at home must pay their own fare home: "The State should pay their return fare, if the Federal government will not." The cost of the return trip from the border is about $35.

MANY NEW PLANTS FOR THE SOUTH

Baltimore, July 28.—Industrial developments throughout the South are detailed in the Manufacturers' Record, showing plans for a steel infgot plant for Baltimore, shipyards for Mobile, Ala., abattoir and meat-packing plant for Chattanooga, floating dry dock for Galveston, silica factory for Beaumont, Tex., graphite mill for Ashland, Ala., and coffee plant for Houston, Tex.

M'CALL URGES U. S. USE NEW DRYDOCK

Governor McCall wrote to Senator Weeks today, urging that in the naval bill provision be made for allowing the navy to use the new drydock under construction in Boston, in time of need. The new drydock will be the only one north of New York capable of docking the largest ships and suitable to the demands of the government.

FLIES 140 MILES TO ATLANTIC CITY

Employes Declare They Are Not Responsible For Poor Telephone Service

The Boston AMERICAN published the following editorial Wednesday:

The service of the Telephone Company in this community has been growing steadily worse.

We can never be absolutely sure that a public service corporation is guilty of negligent and unprogressive management when it FAILS to improve its service with the advance in the Art, but when the Art is ADVANCING and the service is DETERIORATING, nobody needs to fear doing the company an injustice by charging it with negligence and missmanagement.

Indeed, this bad service is so notorious that the officials of the company have not the temerity to deny it. They make complaints whose intelligence they respect, they confess the bad service and then proceed to blame it upon the employes.

It is whispered that a few of the representatives of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company have had trouble began with the organization of the telephone employes into a labor union, that since then they have had no longer control of their employes, that the union is the primary cause of the bad service and general inefficiency of the Telephone Company in its relations to the public.

This is a very serious charge against the telephone operatives. It is altogether probable that the telephone girls will not answer this accusation. It would be unfortunate for the public, for the company and the public, if they did not appreciate their responsibility in the matter of service.

Bad telephone service is a very serious handicap to the business progress of any community, and it is a very trying thing on the nerves. It is a matter of fact that we lose our patience quicker with the bad telephone service than with almost anything in the world, and a business man whose nerves are frayed by bad service is an exasperating instance of bad service on the telephone will be the last man that breaks his self-control.

The AMERICAN states the accusation against the telephone employes in order that they may, if they feel that there is in any way responsible, correct their fault; and, if they feel that they are not responsible, that they may point out to the public where and how the service is wrong.

The AMERICAN invites communications both from the company and the employes of the telephone service. It will be treated with profound confidence.

SAYS EMPLOYES NOT AT FAULT.

Following the above editorial General Manager W. R. Driver, Jr., of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company issued the following to employes of the company:

In view of certain statements made in the press I wish you all to feel assured that no responsible person in the company has any fear of anything but the utmost confidence in the ability and loyalty of the entire whole force of operating employes.

I wish all other supervising officers, understand the difficulties, because of the extra strain placed upon the pressure because of an unprecedented traffic, under which all central office forces have been working.

Now that I recent hidden attacks upon your faithfulness and for you I shall do all that I can to meet and refute such statements that I know to be unfair to you. Very truly yours,

(signed) W. R. DRIVER, JR.

General Manager.

Simultaneously to the above the Adjustment Board of the Boston Telephone Operators' Union has made public the following statement:

"The emphasis put upon certain sentences in the following statement is indicated in blocked-faced type, is our own.—Editor Boston AMERICAN.)

To the Editor Boston AMERICAN:

The Telephone Operators' Union, since its organization in 1912, has established and maintained through its adjustment board relations between the operating force and the officials of the company of a most friendly and satisfactory character.

This adjustment board, composed of an equal number of representatives of the company and of the organization of operatives, meets monthly, and it is the recognized forum for grievances and complaints, both of the operatives and of the management of the department.

Since the establishment of this board the method of the company, as well as of the union, has been to refer to the board, for consideration, but without prejudice, matters affecting the operating department, both of administration and of discipline.

NO COMPLAINT BY COMPANY.

Since no complaint has been made to the company to the adjustment board, expressing dissatisfaction with the attitude, conduct or work of the operatives, we feel justified in assuming that no such dissatisfaction exists.

Our experience with the representatives of the company convinces us that if they believed that the primary cause of bad service and general inefficiency to be a fact that the operators were organized, they would bring it to the attention of the authorized representatives of the organization rather than to a later work reported about the city.

Good service requires the telephone operators' union no less than it does the company, and we are willing and accept our responsibility in the matter to a degree.

We are not sufficient to complain of poor service, but it is almost impossible for us to meet all the almost daily complaints of service as vague and general as those set forth by the AMERICAN.

Criticisms of the service definite enough to be dealt with by the officials of the union, and the operators pledge themselves to report to us all that have been working, in co-operation with the company, for a high standard of service.

FREQUENT CHANGES MADE.

On many occasions the union has proposed and the company has accepted changes in operating routine which have been beneficial to the service.

We unhesitatingly state that there has been no falling off in the quality of telephone service other than that which inevitably accompanies the shifting of a large part of the population to the street and mountain resorts and the temporary effect directly caused by unusual weather conditions.

Hot weather brings unusual and abnormal abuse of the telephone. It affects the use of the telephone as it affects no other business. Everyone uses the line of least resistance, in this weather, and that is the telephone.

When demands on the operators increase in proportion as their efficiency decreases service is bound to fall below the superlatively high standard set by the company.

We are all human and mistakes are bound to happen, but aside from isolated cases and exceptional conditions the service has never been more prompt, more courteous and more accurate than at the present time.

We discredit the theory that these statements emanate from the company, but believe rather that it is missionary work done by people who think that a labor union can do no right.

LILLIE A. GOODWIN, Chairman.

MARY A. MAHONEY,

ISABELLE R. CAULFIELD,

Adjustment Board, Boston Telephone Operators' Union.

Walsh Is Silent on His Candidacy for U. S. Senate

Former Governor David I. Walsh, continuing his homeward trip from the Far East, left San Francisco today for Seattle. He left behind San Francisco that he would ever run again for Governor. But on the question of his running for the United States Senate he did not go so far.

He merely had "nothing to say" just then.

On the governor question he said: "I have held the office of Governor as long as I have been entitled to it, and I would no more think of running again than I would of being a candidate for alderman."

On the senatorial possibility, however, he said: "That is a different thing entirely. There has been a good deal said about my candidacy for United States Senator, but even on that point I have nothing to say at present. Any announcement I will make will be made when I get back home. I have no definite plans."

Georgetown Trio of Police Fired on by Cottagers

Haverhill, July 28.—When Chief of Police George T. Wildes of Georgetown and two others officers went to Rock Pond, Georgetown, early today, to find a missing girl who was reported to be there, they approached a cottage where—it was later discovered—three prominent Haverhill men and several young women were staying.

They knocked, announced that they were the "police" and then fled when someone inside the cottage fired five or six shots in quick succession.

Chief Wildes said later he "guessed he should be made welcome as much."

The police went looking for sixteen-year-old Augusta Lucey, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lucey, Summer street, Haverhill, and found her in one of the cottages, turning her over to her father.

KICKED TO DEATH BY HORSE, IS BELIEF

St. Johnsbury, Vt., July 28.—Further investigation in the case of Roy Wells, the Orleans man who died here, strengthens the belief in the minds of the authorities that death resulted from a kick from the horse he was driving. It was learned that the animal was particularly vicious. The man's relatives believe that he was murdered, but no motive could be ascribed, and there are no suspects.

'MERCURY CREW NOT VITAL'

Francis E. Adams, father of Dr. Celia P. Adams, who died at the Commonwealth Hospital a few hours before Dr. Eldridge de L. Atwood shot Dr. Wilfred B. Harris, does not believe that the mercury tablets found in his dead daughter's physician case prove that she committed suicide. He declared it is customary for doctors to carry mercury tablets in "their medicine cases."

Mr. Adams stated that the tablets were not found in the former Brookline girl's wrist bag as was first reported. If they had, he said, there might be reason for him to form a different opinion than the one he now holds about the death cause of his daughter.

ANTISEPTIC TABLETS FOUND.

Mr. Adams claims that the tablets were simply antiseptic ones, and similar to the kind used by all physicians who deem an antiseptic is required.

Medical Examiner Magrath said that mercury was the poison that killed the young Brookline osteopath. The source of the poison had remained a mystery, with endless speculation whether the girl's death was a case of accident, suicide or murder.

The bottle of tablets was brought to Assistant District Attorney Daniel J. McGlinchey by Winthrop Adams, brother of Dr. Adams. The bottle was one of a number of articles which Winthrop Adams had removed from his sister's office prior to the official search of the place by the police and medical examiner.

FIND VIAL IN BAG.

The brother had collected some things in a bag his sister owned and had taken them from the office.

He brought the bag and its contents to the district attorney's office in response to a message from Dr. McGlinchey. The latter held the bag also all its contents except a purse.

Speaking of the things brought by the brother, Mr. McGlinchey said later:

"In the bag was a vial with a number of mercury tablets."

Dr. Atwood's mother, who is ill at Vinal Haven, Me., now knows that her son shot Dr. Harris. She is heartbroken, but is hoping the boy's wife what fortitude she can muster. It is not known, however, whether she has been told of Dr. Harris' death and the murder charge.

Miss Alison De Lorieo of Woburn, the doctor's aunt, went to Vinal Haven last Sunday, so that Dr. Atwood's father could leave his wife and return here in his son's interest. Mr. Atwood did not tell her of the real reason for his sudden return.

FRESH SHOCK AWAITS MOTHER.

Dr. Atwood received a postcard from Miss De Lorieo saying:

Arrived safely. Lillie is taking the news calmly, but her heart is broken. Will write soon.

SUSIE.

This postcard was written presumably before the death of Dr. Harris on Tuesday and the murder charge against Dr. Atwood. So the sad and distracted mother may yet have a fresh shock to endure.

Dr. Atwood's brother, Joseph, who went on the cruise of the naval militia, is expected back Saturday. Two letters have been mailed to him with the news of the shooting in the possibility that the letters might catch up with the brother at some port. But no answer having been re-

Police Arrest 3 in a Crusade to Stop Ice Thefts

Plain clothes men from Police Station No. 2, working under instructions from Captain James F. Sullivan, are scouring the division today with a view of putting a stop to the many thefts of ice from the doorways of buildings along the streets. As a result of the crusade, three boys were arrested and fined one dollar each when arraigned in the Juvenile Court.

HEIRESS STILL LOVES FISH DEALER, SHE TESTIFIES

they were pretty shoes. He put his hand down to feel one of them. Then he put his hand on my knee. I raised myself up and I attempted to slap him in the face. He was too quick for me. I left his office and I have not been there since."

The witness testified that she called at Attorney's Morse's office and there met Mr. Paine in the presence of Mr. Morse.

"I remember the conversation which took place. I remember saying to Mr. Paine that he owed me an apology and that if he was a gentleman he would make one. He did not seem to be aware of what he did."

Attorney Hill—Tell us what he did.

Morse—She'll tell. Go on, Marion.

Marion—We argued and argued and he said he didn't do anything I said he did, and he knew he did. I asked him to be a gentleman and resign as my conservator. He said he would resign.

QUESTIONED ABOUT LETTER.

Witness was then questioned about the Mary Sunshine letter.

The above testimony was given after Miss Smith had denied the charges made on the stand by Mr. and Mrs. Fostrom, who were servants at her home, concerning her views and habits.

Q—You have heard Mr. and Mrs. Fostrom tell of your habits at your home? What have you to say?

A—They are absolutely false and too disgusting to mention.

These charges alleged that Miss Smith and Maurice Phinney were locked together in a room at her home. She denied all allegations concerning herself and Phinney.

Q—You heard the story of your grandmother as to your personal habits. Is that story true?

A—That is certainly not.

Witness testified that she discharged the Fostroms. She said Mrs. Fostrom had been employed six or eight weeks.

"I told her to leave the house. She was very insulting. I told her my grandma left. I never made any statement to Mrs. Fostrom about immoral acts."

Q—When were you informed that your grandmother had filed a petition for a conservator in this court? A—I heard it.

TELLS ABOUT ARREST.

Q—Will you tell us about the time you were arrested? A—I was home doing some work and Court Officer Maloney came into the house. He had a paper in his hand which he read to me and told me I was under arrest. I asked him what had I done. I told him I didn't do anything to be arrested for. He took me over to the court house and there a couple of men came in and asked me all sorts of questions. Mr. Bradford came into the room and said that I was going to be taken to the Psychopathic Hospital. He said he thought it would be best for me and to put my property in the hands of some person. I asked him why was that. He said he thought a conservator should be appointed. Mr. Paine had been acting for me then. Before I was taken away, I tried to get in touch with Mr. Paine. Mr. Maloney, the officer, told me that Mr. Paine wasn't in town. The doctors who questioned me at the court were Dr. Hall and Millikin. We talked about an hour. Then a paper was brought to me and I signed it. I did not receive the advice of any lawyer or counsel.

From there I was taken to the home of Mrs. Paine, in Hyannis, where I had dinner. From there I was taken to the Psychopathic Hospital, where I remained ten weeks. I was given all sorts of tests. Some time previous to going there I had injured my spine and was suffering from headaches. I was ill when I came home from the hospital. Mrs. Paine came home with me. I was at Mrs. Paine's a short while when Miss McAdam, the nurse, came.

Then I went home to my own house with Miss McAdam. She remained there with me two or three weeks. The day I went home I called on Mr. Paine. I told him there was very little coal in the house and I had no money. He came up to the house later and gave me ten dollars. He told me at the time that my affairs had not been attended to; that he had intended to look after them and would give me the money. In the meantime buy the coal and other things.

I went to him later with Miss McAdam and talked over matters with him in her presence. I called at his office often after that. While Miss McAdam was at the house where I lived I wasn't allowed out of her sight; in fact, I was not allowed out of her sight until after Mr. Morse's visit.

FOLLOWED ADVICE.

Q—What did I tell you to do? A—You told me to do as I saw fit.

Q—I told you to go where you had a mind to, didn't I? A—You did.

Q—Did you? A—I did. (Laughter.)

It was at this juncture that Miss Smith told the story of her visit to Mr. Paine's office. During the recital of the incident she kept her eyes fixed on Paine, who flushed up and bowed his head.

Q—Did you write a letter to Mrs. Paine, the clairvoyant. A—Yes, I wrote a letter to Mrs. Paine, and my grandmother picked up the local paper and said, "Why Marion, there's a clairvoyant in town, let's write and see if I'm going to get my divorce from Mr. Coburn. That's what started the clairvoyant story.

Q—Do you love Maurice Phinney? A—Yes, I do. (Sobbing.) He came into my life when all my own folks took me.

Q—Did you tell Mr. Ellis that you were a detective? A—Yes. I strung him along. I never did block up and I never chased a man over to Woods Hole. (Laughing.)

Q—Do you know Mr. Cliff Hallett? A—Yes, he came to call upon me with Mr. Ellis. I received my introduction to him then. About 9:30 in the evening Mr. Hallett wanted to go home. He asked Ellis to take him down town. He also said, "We'd better take Marion along with us." We made one or two calls at the stores, where Hallett bought me some candy. After we rode away I suddenly became dizzy. A peculiar feeling, not dizzy, but I seemed to be drifting away. It was a feeling that I cannot explain. When I recovered it was 2 o'clock in the morning.

Q—Do you know Mr. Leighton and his wife? A—Yes.

Q—Have you ever signalled to the lighthouse keeper? A—Yes, if the waving of my hand is a signal.

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Q—Please explain the incident of your falling down the lighthouse stairs. A—I simply caught my skirt and fell and was made unconscious.

Q—Did you fail so to find out how much Leighton thought of you, as testified to by your grandmother? A—No.

Q—Did you ask James Flannagan to his figures, to $562.56. Among the checks he sent out for Miss Smith was one for $84.70 to Albert C. Bill of Hartford for services rendered Miss Smith. The latter is Charles Paine's attorney.

Q—Do you know Marion Pomeroy Smith? A—Yes.

Q—When did you first meet her? A—I think it was the latter part of June or the first of July.

TELLS OF MEETING MARION.

Q—How did you meet her? A—She and her grandmother called at my place of business at the wharf to buy some fish.

Q—When did you meet Marion after? A—I used to see her quite often.

Q—Did you call at her houses? A—Not for a while.

Q—When did you begin calling at her house? A—In September. I called often afterwards in a social way.

Q—How often? A—Two or three times a week.

Q—Did you furnish her supplies and money? A—Yes.

Q—Did you keep an account of the supplies and money you gave her? A—Yes.

Q—How? A—In a book.

Q—Where is that book? A—I have it here.

Here witness read from the ledger various items charged up to Miss Smith. The total amount, according

SCOUTS AID IN MILTON GIRL DEATH CASE

Oak Bluffs, July 28.—Boy Scouts today searched for the belongings of Miss Henrietta McLeod of Milton, the finding of whose body in Farm Pond started an investigation in State and local police to ascertain the cause of death.

The theory that the woman was murdered is strengthened by the fact that her clothes, baggage and jewelry have not been found, that her upper and lower front teeth had been knocked out and that there was very little water in her lungs.

The investigation is in charge of State Police Inspector Thomas A. Dexter, who has traced her from the time she left the Lothrop home, Sunday morning, July 9, until noon on the same day, when she entered the lunch carr of William B. Ripley.

At that time Miss McLeod was carrying a straw suit case, a leather bag and a parasol. She wore a white waist, a black skirt and a panama hat with striped ribbon around it. When the body was found, skirt, hat, parasol, a shoe, a gold ring from her right hand and all her baggage were missing.

These facts the police feel point strongly to murder. Search in the various baggage rooms between here and Boston for the missing baggage has been unsuccessful, and the police are now scouring the countryside, with the assistance of the Boy Scouts.

The body of the victim was buried in New Bedford, after an autopsy by Medical Examiner E. P. Worth. Dr. Worth reported death was due to unknown causes.

Beatrice Fairfax on Screen in Wonderful International Serial

PHOTOGRAPH BY CAMPBELL STUDIOS, NY

GRACE DARLING.

Beatrice Fairfax, beloved of the lovelorn, is going to extend her field of endeavor to the moving picture screen. Within a fortnight, the international Film Service, Inc., will present to the public some of the most thrilling incidents that have come to the attention of the most celebrated confidante to the country. The title of the serial will be "Beatrice Fairfax."

The suggestion that Beatrice Fairfax be picturized, came in a present letter from William Randolph Hearst to the editor of the New York Evening Journal.

For eighteen years the name of Beatrice Fairfax has been associated with love and romance, joy and sorrow. Millions of persons have sought her advice. Shop-girls and society debutantes, maidens and widows, mothers and orphans in distress, bashful swains and worldwise men, rich and poor, young and old, have followed the advice of the composer of the popular song to

Write to Beatrice Fairfax
She'll tell you what to do.

The air of mystery that has always surrounded the identity of Beatrice Fairfax is not to be disturbed by her re-creation into a living, breathing personage. To the endless throng of her correspondents she is still to be a being adept, a gentle, kindly, patient godmother, listening to the joys and sorrows of her "boys and girls" advising, scolding sometimes, but always endeavoring to lead them in the straight and narrow path that alone brings happiness.

Beatrice Fairfax was overjoyed at the suggestion that some of the most stirring incidents that have come to her attention be placed on the screen. Basil Dickey was called in to collaborate with her on the scenario. Thousands of letters to Beatrice Fairfax were read and re-read. Other thousands of new letters were digested. Scarcely one was found that did not teem with the fundamental things from which scenarios are made.

The result has been the most intensely fascinating and dramatic series of human interest episodes ever compiled for the screen. Many of them are real happenings. Others are based partly on fact and still others carry only the idea suggested by the correspondents. In all instances fictitious names and addresses are used. No confidences have been betrayed, no tender feelings hurt. The episodes breathe rather heroic and gallant acts, that seem to be primarily the grist brought to the mill of Beatrice Fairfax.

Beatrice Fairfax herself was permitted to select the woman to impersonate her upon the screen. More than a score were subjected to a rigid mental and physical examination. She finally selected Miss Grace Darling as the best exemplification of her idea of herself. Many persons have pictured Beatrice Fairfax as elderly and matronly.

To all questions as to why she selected a woman so young for the part Miss Fairfax answered:

Love confidences centre about youth and beauty. For ages words of wisdom have fallen from the lips of youth. The world loves youth and beauty. It despises age and wrinkles. Therefore I want the public to think of Beatrice Fairfax as young and comely and gifted with uncommon wisdom.

Grace Darling, besides possessing the requisites demanded by Beatrice Fairfax, is particularly adapted to the role. In addition to being an accomplished screen actress, she was for several years engaged in newspaper work, having been selected as the official newspaper correspondent to accompany the first passenger steamship from New York to San Francisco, through the Panama Canal.

FATALITY DUE TO NEW YORK CAR STRIKE

By International News Service.

New York, July 28.—A fatal accident in which one man was killed and eight injured resulted today from the efforts of the Union Railway Company to run trolley cars in defiance of the strike which has crippled service in Westchester County and spread down to the Bronx section of New York city.

A car manned by strike-breakers and guarded by policemen was derailed on Tremont avenue and crashed into an "L" pillar near Boston road.

E. Horn, a strike-breaker whose address is unknown, was the motorman on the car. He was crushed to death. The two policemen on the car were badly bruised and two of the other strike-breakers were taken to the Fordham Hospital in a dying condition.

Just as the last injured man had been taken from the car's debris three other runaway trolley cars plunged into the wreckage. They had been stopped on a hill when Horn's car was derailed and in some manner the brakes were released, permitting the cars to run downward. The police suspect strike sympathizers of having started the cars.

Antithetical fervor rioting today than marked the struggle of yesterday, police officials sent additional men out on strike duty today. They were instructed to prevent any efforts to interfere with the cars that the company tried to run.

In the meantime union leaders held a conference at a downtown hotel, discussing the advisability of calling out all union men in New York city. The radicals advocated this move immediately, but the conservatives advised that the employes be better organized before they were ordered to strike.

MAINE PRIMARY WON BY FERNALD

Portland, Me., July 28.—The nomination of former Governor Bert M. Fernald as the Republican candidate for United States Senator to succeed the late Edwin C. BANK HEAD ADMITS FRAUD OF $306,000

Newark, N. J., July 28.—Full responsibility for the collapse of the Mutual Trust Company of Orange, N. J., which was closed Monday by State banking authorities, has been assumed by Edwin H. Hatch, vice president of the institution and said to be one of the largest stockholders. The crash, he said, resulted from the overcertification of a $25,000 deposit to ten times that amount—$250,000.

Hatch's statement, issued from a sick bed, followed the arrest of himself and Thomas S. Horne, secretary-treasurer of the bank. The latter previously admitted, according to the authorities, that he had a part in the alleged conspiracy, but asserted his act was done in the belief that he was saving the bank.

ANTHRAX KILLS 6 IN MASSACHUSETTS

Thirty cases of human anthrax in Massachusetts within a year, six of them resulting in death, when hitherto this disease has been almost unknown here, prompted the State Board of Labor and Industries to promulgate a set of suggestions for the protection of 10,000 to 15,000 persons in the State subject to infection through their employment.

Wool sorters' disease is the name formerly given anthrax, because it was most common among wool sorters, but its Massachusetts victims have been among those handling hides at docks and tanneries as well as those handling wool and brush bristles.

CARMEN'S UNION RESENTS DISCHARGE

The controversy between the carmen of the Middlesex and Boston railway and the company over the question of wage increase was complicated by the announcement at Waltham that the union will take action in connection with the discharge of one of its members. Albert Hodge, who has been employed as a conductor for three years, refused last Saturday to work overtime when ordered to do so. He reported for work Monday morning at six and was discharged at ten.

General Manager George M. Cox told President William T. Eaton and John J. Duffy of Local 600, that the road felt justified in its action.

The case has been reported to the national executive boards of the union.

"FIGHTING" NINTH FACES INQUIRY ON SHOOTING

By BERT FORD.

Second Massachusetts Brigade Headquarters, El Paso, Tex., July 28.—General E. Leroy Sweetser, commander of the Second Massachusetts Brigade, has ordered an investigation of rumors circulated as the result of volley fired last Sunday night by C and D companies of the Ninth Regiment.

There has been so much camp gossip and so many theories relative to the Sabbath evening fusillade that those in charge of the Second Massachusetts infantry units located at Camp Cotton decided thoroughly to probe the affair and to put an end to it for all time.

It is charged that outposts of C and D companies fired on each other and, more serious still, that the shooting was pre-arranged.

General Edward L. Logan, commander of the Ninth Regiment, heard these charges and has directed a commissioned officer in the Fifth Regiment make the assertion that the firing Sunday night was directed at Mexican snipers but had been deliberately planned for publicity purposes.

LOGAN WELCOMES INQUIRY.

Such insinuations were regarded as an absurd and vicious lie by Colonel Logan that he asked General Sweetser to sift them. Colonel Logan says he welcomes the inquiry because he feels certain they will be proved false.

Other officers of the Ninth attribute the accusations to "petty jealousy." At any rate the regimental mutterings have stirred a hornets' nest in the Second Brigade, and General Sweetser and all concerned feel that the brigade spirit and effectiveness must be best protected by getting at the bottom of the affair.

If it is felt that if the shooting was staged, the truth ought to be known, and also if these reports are the product of regimental jealousy, that, too, ought to be determined before the friction works damage to the brigade.

The order for investigation reads:

The commanding officer of the Eighth Regiment, Colonel Frank A. Graves, will take such measures as he may deem necessary to investigate fully the report that the firing which occurred shortly after 9 p. m. on July 23, was prearranged. This order shall be his warrant for taking accounts of all having knowledge of same.

By order of General E. Leroy Sweetser, commanding Second Massachusetts Brigade.

BLANCHARD INVESTIGATES.

Colonel Grayson, appointed Second Lieutenant Hugh Blanchard, a Boston lawyer and battalion quartermaster of the Eighth, to get evidence. Lieutenant Blanchard has not finished his inquiries. It is understood that a Texas Ranger is one of the witnesses.

Fifty shots were fired Sunday night by the outposts made up of the senior battalion of the Ninth, commanded by Major William J. Casey. At Eucalyptus avenue, which has been a troublesome post since the Bay State guards men substituted regulars in guarding the so-called "island". Outposts reported that they challenged Mexicans, who refused to stop, and when again challenged, replied with revolver shots.

The Ninth's outposts then fired a volley. Almost simultaneously two bullets pierced the refreshment booth near the entrance to Camp Cotton, narrowly shaving officers' tents. The holes were thirty thirties, such as are used by our troops. This discovery indicated that C and D companies' outposts were so located that when they fired at the Mexicans their volleys were within range of their own outposts. However, these locations were not established by the Ninth, but had been mapped out by the regulars months ago.

CAMP FULL OF GOSSIP.

Naturally, the affair furnished choice material for camp gossip, and the variations grew and drums were swapped that had a sting to them, and the feelings engendered started the investigation.

The Eighth officers and men called their left-hand neighbors the "Frightened Ninth," and the Fifth's men had their jokes. For days the other two regiments of Infantry camped here have been complaining about the publicity given the Ninth.

It was Sergeant Frank O'Neil, a Ninth sharpshooter, who fired the first shot at a Mexican sniper, and he could have dropped his man if a little boy had not run within range. It was outposts of K Company of Clinton and G Company of Worcester who had up to the first Mexican smuggling parties after a warning had come from Fort Ililes that smugglers were active.

It was L Company of Natick, Captain James F. Hickey, also of the Ninth, that fought the first skirmish in broad daylight and dropped two of the snipers on the opposite side of the Rio Grande.

Official reports of all of these shootings have been filed with General George Bell, Jr., commanding the El Paso military zone. General Bell has officially sanctioned the Ninth's action, and through General Sweetser issued an order that snipers must be fired on in volleys and that the guardsmen must shoot to kill if fired on first.

FIFTH UNDER FIRE.

Apparently the only shooting questioned by the other regiments of the brigade was that of Sunday night, incidentally it might be mentioned that the Fifth Regiment's outposts have been fired upon, and have returned the fire, but this happened after the Ninth's exploits.

Also a Fifth Regiment sentry Monday night fired a shot as a joke to frighten a comrade, and the bullet whizzed along the Ninth's main street with men and officers around camp before taps. The wonder was that some one was not hit.

That prank resulted in an investigation, and Colonel Willis W. Stover lost no time finding the joker and punishing him. What the officers and men of the Ninth Regiment resent most is the charge that they should be so indiscreet and silly as to shoot to win headlines when careless volleys might bring on international complications.

Colonel Logan looks upon the situation as a joke, and says that the inquiry will show it to be the product of idle gossip.

Mexico Needs a New Doctor, Says Lippitt

By International News Service.

Washington, July 28.

AFTER Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island had concluded an arraignment of President Wilson's Mexican policy, Senator Thomas of Colorado (Democrat) asked: "What would the Republicans do?"

"When," replied Mr. Lippitt, "a physician attends a patient for nearly four years, and daily the patient becomes worse, the usual custom is for the friends to call in another physician."

Nearly Any Case of Tuberculosis

can be helped in some measure by prompt and proper attention. If taken in time and properly treated it often can be cured in the early stages. Fresh, unbreathed air, sunshine and exercise—plenty of them—are the essentials. Live in the open air as much as possible. Take always plenty of nourishing food, and wide open.

If these measures do not arrest the progress of the disease, try effective medicine. Scott's Emulsion has helped thousands to recovery. It will help you to a strengthening cough.

In many cases Eckman's Alterative has helped to cure. Ask your doctor about it. It may be tried without fear, since it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs.

EIGHTH REGIMENT PLANS BIG BORDER THEATRICAL SEASON

By SERGEANT-MAJOR FREDERICK A. WARD.

El Paso, Tex., July 28.—Rumor is responsible for a vast disappointment among the men left behind to guard the camp of the "Efficient Eighth" while the regiment is away on patrol duty.

Some one started the story that reveille would not be blown until 8 o'clock for the next few weeks, and as every story that is started down here is swallowed whole, some fifty or more men went to bed at taps secure in the belief that they would not have to get up at 5:45 o'clock in the morning.

But they were doomed to disappointment, and first call and reveille came at the same old time. Result, one more perfectly good rumor gone into the discard along with the story that we are going home August 27, which circulated around the brigade a few days ago and found many credulous rookies to believe in it.

LOSS OF BREAKFAST.

All of the companies of the Eighth reached their new stations safely with the exception of K Company, which had a bad smashup caused by colliding with a locomotive. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt, and the loss to the company consisted of several smashed rifles and the "chow" which they were transporting for their supper and today's breakfast was completely destroyed. The motor truck belonging to one of the regular motor truck companies was completely wrecked, but as soon as the quartermaster's department was notified, another truck was speeding on the way and the delay in reaching camp was very slight.

Due to the immense success of the vaudeville show that the Eighth put on the other night plans are already under way for the production of the opera "Pinafore" and the playing of the drama, "Held by the Enemy," which was given with great success by Company A in the Cambridge Armory this Spring. The cast for "Held by the Enemy" unfortunately cannot be the same, as the fair damsels who took the ladies' parts are far away, but already their substitutes have been secured and when the books are received, which will be in a day or two, rehearsals will start in earnest and it is expected that they will be presented in about two weeks and "Pinafore" about a week later.

GONZALES COMPLIES.

Complying with a request from General Bell, General Francisco Gonzales, Carranzista commander of Ciudad Juarez, states that he has ordered regular soldiers to police the district known as the "Island" opposite the camp of the Massachusetts troops, the scene of frequent sniping and skirmishes. This proved interesting news to the Second Brigade, as the men were of the opinion that many of the snipers were Carranza soldiers, there being no appreciable difference in the uniforms, which consists of a white shirt and trousers for both bandits and soldiers.

MASSACHUSETTS BOYS WIN PROMOTION ON BORDER

By WILLARD H. DAVIS.

Columbus, N. M., July 28.—Captain Harry C. Martin, in civil life Dr. Martin of Springfield, has been appointed assistant sanitary inspector of the territory in which the camp of the Second Regiment is situated. This includes the city of Columbus.

Dr. Martin's new duties will be to establish and keep city and camp up to a sanitary standard. He will visit and inspect all shops and places of business as well and the different units of his own regiment.

The appointment was a popular one and is only one of the many which have been made by the regimental officers in charge since the boys have arrived.

PROMOTIONS ANNOUNCED.

Promotions are commencing to come thick and fast now. The month on the border has worked wonders in the men and for their meritorious services they are being rewarded with higher ranks. The following promotions have been made in Company C of Springfield.

Corporal John F. Greene, to supply sergeant; Corporal Charles K. Van Benson, to sergeant; Corporal Raymond Millard, to sergeant; Private A. F. Delledian, to corporal, and Private L. Frappier, to Corporal.

Company E of Orange had the following promotions. To sergeant, Thomas Dixon; William Frank, Albert Littlewood, Harry Avery. In the same company these men were made corporals: Henry Dame, Axel B. Jorkland, George H. Pittenieud and Harlow Sleeper.

CHALLENGES HUNTERS.

Lieutenant Burr of Company A, Worcester, while doing duty on the outposts, challenged a party of hunters, who had their game bags well loaded down with all sorts of stuff. The lieutenant questioned them closely, found they had no permits and for safety sake took away their ammunition and weapons. Today, after an examination these were returned.

Major Alfred G. Foote, of Holyoke, well known throughout the State, will have many interesting stories to tell the boys when he gets back home. His favorite is as follows:

"One night I was riding the outposts kind of looking my men over. I had been challenged constantly with the 'Halt, who goes there?' and 'Dismount' challenges. On dismounting one time I found myself up against a barbed wire fence. I was commanded by the sentry to 'Advance and be recognized.'

"'I cannot advance, I'm up against a fence,' I replied to the young sentry. To my feeble excuse he replied sharply, 'Well, you get damned bonehead, crawl under.' I did."

ANOTHER GOOD ONE.

Lieutenant Choquette, of Company D, Holyoke, one of the most popular and efficient officers of the regiment, delights in telling this one about himself:

"Like Major Foote, I, too, was riding the outposts. I was challenged and had dismounted ready to be recognized. I was given the order to advance and be recognized. I advanced about five feet when the sentry halted me. He looked me all over, up and down, then with a very inquisitive face remarked:

"Say, who in ——— are you anyway?

"Naturally I thought every one in the company knew me. I, their first lieutenant, so in nice tones I inquired as follows:

"'Why don't you know me? I'm your first lieutenant. Choquette is my name.'

"Whereupon the youth shouted, 'Well, that's where I catch you in your first lie. We ain't got a first lieutenant in our company.'

"He thereupon called the corporal of the guard who of course immediately identified me. It seems the lad was a rookie, and he was one of the new bunch that had just arrived. Naturally he didn't know me and had been told his company was only supplied with a captain and a second lieutenant."

LOST IN MEXICO.

Congressman Allen T. Treadway, of the First Massachusetts Congressional District, armed himself with a passport from the commanding officer and accompanied by Chaplain Walton S. Danker of Worcester, went across the line into Mexico.

Neither had shown up at a late hour and there was more or less anxiety about their safety.

A detail of machine gun motorcycle company, commanded by Captain Forrest Burger of Springfield, was rushed over the track to meet and escort the incoming auto party happy and safe.

The first stop made by the western Massachusetts Congressman was at Las Palomas, where they tasted the wares of the famous spring. From here they went south and stopped for lunch with army officers who were returning from General Pershing's field base on motor trucks.

What is Castoria.

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kahl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 26 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. In not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The following letter has been sent to all the leading daily newspapers in Boston, but fearing that their Control Policies may prevent the publication of it in the news columns, we are herewith publishing it as a paid advertisement in our own defense.

A LETTER to the PUBLIC

Concerning

"Where Are My Children?"

And

The Birth Control Mass Meeting

The Allison Birth Control League, having secured the Majestic Theatre for next Sunday night (July 30th), at which time it is their purpose to voice their protest against the conviction and sentence of Mr. Van Kleek Allison for "disseminating obscene literature," i. e., pamphlets concerning Birth Control (and at which the principal speaker, we understand, will be Mrs. Margaret Sanger) it is quite likely, and more or less natural, that the public will connect, in a general way, at least, the photoplay, "Where Are My Children?" now being shown at that theatre, with this movement in favor of Birth Control.

It is also quite likely that it will be hinted, or openly stated, that it is strange that the police allow a picture to be exhibited while prosecuting, or, as they consider it, persecuting Mr. Allison for distributing literature on the subject.

Unfortunately, the producers of the photoplay, "Where Are My Children?" have no control over the use of the theatre on Sunday. It is quite natural, however, that the Birth Control League should select the Majestic which is the only large theatre open and available on Sunday which will accommodate the large attendance which is expected.

Anyone who has seen "Where Are My Children?" knows that the film is in no way an advocate of BIRTH CONTROL; neither does it oppose it. "Where Are My Children?" simply pictures scenes from real life, and the spectator is left to make his or her own deductions. True there seems to be sympathy for the poor zealot, who in the photoplay is forced to serve a term of imprisonment for his violation of the law; but the fact remains—the man IS convicted and sentenced. The law deals with facts, not with motives. Had Mr. Van Kleek Allison observed the picture more closely he would have noticed that, although the BIRTH CONTROL case forms an important part of the film, "Where Are My Children?" and extracts from the pamphlet in question are given on the screen, there is no specific, no remedy advised. There is nothing but the claim of the accused that Birth Control would be a panacea for many of the human evils.

The claim may be advanced that the exhibition of the picture in itself arouses a curiosity regarding such subjects. Granting that, it will have to be admitted that it is no new curiosity, and there is a legitimate source of information for those who have that curiosity.

As a matter of fact the producers of "Where Are My Children?" in their advertising matter have made it a point to declare that the picture is in no way to be considered as advocating or condemning BIRTH CONTROL, and the fact that the picture has received the praises of those who condemn as well as of those who advocate it shows clearly its eminent fairness to all.

As to the other theme of the picture, the premeditated destruction of the unborn, the film permits of no misunderstanding of the sentiments of the producers. The results of tampering with nature are shown too clearly, the consequences of such tampering are depicted in such a way as to act as a strong deterrent in the minds of all thinking people.

While sympathizing with the young man, Allison, in his unhappy predicament, it must be said that his case is not analogous with that of "Where Are My Children?" which aims only to present things as they are, without suggesting a remedy other than that which will come, if it comes at all, from the heart and soul; from a sincere realization of a duty to humanity.

Sincerely yours,

EDW. A. GOLDEN,

Manager, Boston Photoplay Co.

Presenting "Where Are My Children?"

PHYSICIANS DELAY CRETIC 4 HOURS

The unpreparedness of health and customs officials caused a delay of almost four hours to the 1,600 passengers on the White Star liner Cretic, which arrived today from the Mediterranean and the Azores.

The big ship arrived in the lower harbor at 8 o'clock and did not dock at the Commonwealth pier, South Boston, until noon. Many of the passengers did not leave the pier until a late hour today.

The health boat Vigilance is laid up for repairs. In her place is a launch, which broke down on her way to the ship. There was but one doctor to examine the passengers, consisting of 252 cabin and 1,339 steerage.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

This men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good tonic worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and many thin men and women believe can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And, best of all the new flesh sticks put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but, uniting with your food, it aims to turn the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe, fat-producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare it in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily accept. Much of this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol helps to stop the waste, and do it quickly, and to make the fat-producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now deposited in the form of healthy flesh between your skin and muscles. Sargol is safe, efficient and harmless. All leading druggists in this country sell it in large boxes—forty tablets in a package—a guarantee of eight increase or money back, as found in each large box.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

Bring Out Your Hidden Beauty

Beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon. Mercolized wax will gradually, gently absorb the devitalized surface cells, revealing the youthfully fresh, white and beautiful skin underneath. Tried by refined women who prefer complexions by true naturalness. Mercolized wax is a creamy package, with directions, for use, and is sold by all druggists.—Advertisement.

Nurses Soldier Fiance Back to Health and Weds

By International News Service.

New York, July 28.—Having nursed her soldier sweetheart back to health and then married him, Mrs. J. A. Alston brought him back to America with her on the steamship Adriatic, which arrived today. The marriage took place two hours before the ship sailed from Liverpool.

The bridegroom is Lieutenant Alston of the 60th English Rifles. He was wounded in France and hurried to London. Six weeks ago his fiancee received word at her home in Montreal that he was near death and she crossed the Atlantic to nurse him back to life. More than a pound of shrapnel was removed from Alston's chest and left arm.

That there is an English blacklist placing the ban on American vaudeville actors is the report brought to America by Charles E. Bray, assistant manager of the orpheum circuit. He was one of the 106 passengers who arrived on the Adriatic. For several weeks he has been in England and France looking over the field.

Champion Baby Is Given Cup by Cambridge Mayor

Harold McDonald of No. 269 Concord avenue, Cambridge, winner of the Boston AMERICAN baby contest, which carried with it the title of the champion baby of New England, had new honors heaped on hi midday.

Harold, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McDonald, visited the Cambridge City Hall, where he was given a silver cup by Mayor Heckwell. The cup bore the following inscription:

Presented to Harold McDonald, the finest baby in New England, by W. D. Rockwell.

GIRL OF 10, HIT BY MOTOR, NEAR DEATH

Webster, July 28.—While wandering along Lake street, nearly a mile from her home, Yolonia Borowski, the ten-year-old daughter of Mrs. Katharine Borowski of Dater street, was probably fatally injured by an automobile operated by William Lavalle, a public driver.

She suffered fractures of the skull, the jaw and left leg, and other injuries. Dr. Joseph C. Sullivan decided that a trip to a hospital would be fatal. He took her to a nearby house, where, other physicians being summoned, she was made as comfortable as possible.

BABY CHOKES TO DEATH ON BEAN

A bean, which two-year-old Frank Tucci of Horace street, Somerville, found in the street and attempted to swallow, got lodged in his windpipe and caused death by strangulation.

He was the son of Dianno Tucci. The boy found the bean while playing in the street, and his death occurred at a private hospital in Somerville, where he was taken in an ambulance after his playmates discovered him lying in the road, choking.

AUTO FOR EVERY 44 PERSONS IN U. S.

By International News Service.

Washington, July 28.—Motor vehicles averaged one registration for every forty-four persons in the United States last year, according to the Offices of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture. The total number registered in the United States was 2,445,666, for which registration and license fees aggregated $18,245,713.

R. I. MAN, STRICKEN WHILE EATING, DEAD

Providence, July 28.—Palmer C. Sherman, managing solicitor of the Creditors' National Clearing House of Boston, who had office room on Westbourne street, was taken ill in a lunch room on Westminster street here. An ambulance was called and he was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital, where he died later of cerebral hemorrhage.

GIRL IN 'BUBBLE CASE' LURED TO DOOM

By International News Service.

Olney, Ill., July 28.—Missing fragments of the strange story of Elizabeth Radcliffe and Roy Hinderleiter, supplied to explain the seventeen-year-old girl's tragic death from air bubbles in her veins, disclose the mystery of her last ride with the boy farmer in an entirely new light. They reveal a conspiracy to lure the girl to the lonely spot where she died.

Revelations of Elizabeth's friends are pieced together to show that her young farmer lover had soothed the agony of her fears of disgrace by promising a midnight meeting on the isolating country road with two physicians, who were to direct the operation that was intended to destroy the evidence of her unwise love.

These stories tend to show that Hinderleiter then persuaded two of his "Texas" friends to take the roles of the supposed physicians and that when they quailed at the last moment at the prospect of witnessing the girl's suffering, Hinderleiter did not give up his plan, but carried it out alone, using an instrument which caused air bubbles to form in her veins.

These boys said to be Earl Parry and C. S. Jones, have just about talked themselves into jail. Sheriff West said:

"They have told so much about their part in the affair that their friends already are calling Jones 'Doc Jones.'"

More of the State's case against Hinderliter was disclosed by State's Attorney H. G. Morris. According to the State's attorney the girl was lured to her last tryst with Hinderliter by means of a note. He admits that the girl burned the note, probably at the boy's request, but says that Elizabeth confided its contents to Miss Olo Hobson, her sixteen-year-old sister-in-law.

VICTORY IS SEEN FOR NEW HAVEN BOAT LINES

Washington, July 28.—Transportation attorneys practicing before the Interstate Commerce Commission and railroad officials today expressed the belief that the commission shortly would issue an order granting the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad permission to continue operation of its boat lines under the Panama canal act.

Expectation that the New Haven will win its case is based largely on the decision of the commission permitting the Central Vermont Railroad to continue operation of boat lines from New York city to New London, Ct., and to establish a new boat line between New York and Providence.

Nehf to Face the Cubs

Double Bill Goes Over

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

If Boston fandom sits back and ponders they will agree with G. T. Stallings, manager of the Braves, that the only proper thing to do was to schedule the game postponed, as a result of yesterday's tie, for some date during the next Eastern trip of the Cubs. The Braves are facing a tough series of double bills. In all probabilities by the next time the Cubs arrive Western double-headers will be a thing of the past.

PLEASED TINKER.

Joe Tinker announced this morning that he was pleased Stallings had seen fit to postpone the game. Joe leads his team into a twin bill on Saturday at Philadelphia. Yesterday he, like Stallings, had to use three hurlers and as the staff is in none too good shape he figured a postponement a good thing. The scrappy little Cub manager isn't convinced yet that his team is out of the fight.

In fact he thinks they stand an excellent chance of getting into the big contest to come. Though Joe may say he figures the Phillies as one of the pennant cinches he really doesn't think so. Its certain that the new arrangement of the Cub infield suits him. He feels that with his present infield, and possibly Mollwitz to help out, he will be right up in the hunt.

Chances are that Nehf will work against the Cubs in this afternoon's pastime. He is Stallings' only pertsider who hasn't worked and if he don't draw down the assignment Dick Rudolph will. Rudy warmed up before yesterday's game and appeared to have lots of stuff. It's still certain that he has the cunning which made him famous in 1914 and 1915.

HARD TO PICK THEM.

For the Cubs it's tough picking With Hendrix, Vaughn and Packard surely disposed of Tinker is left with a fine array of hurlers. He can make use of either George McConnell, Miner Brown or Jimmy Lavender, who didn't extend himself yesterday during the short spell he spent on the hill. McConnell is less apt to draw the job than the others.

Long George worked a couple of games for the Cubs recently which were not exactly satisfactory. In one he had to quit because of illness, and in the other he was quite liberally hammered. However, Tinker thinks him a good pitcher and may make use of him today. Joe sincerely hopes that Jimmy Archer's injured finger rounds to shortly, for his catching staff is none too promising at the present time.

NOTHING DOING IN TRADE.

The Cub manager got hot this morning when bronched on the subject of a deal which involved Fred Mollwitz. He couldn't see it at all. In fact, he is strong for Mollwitz, and thinks that the former Red will aid him considerably in the games yet to be played. Joe thinks Vic Saier a wonderful fielding first sacker, but nobody can question the fact that Vic hasn't hit at all well this year.

Stallings hasn't considered trading Evers for some time now. In fact, the Braves' chief remarked early today that Evers wasn't for trade, and reiterated the statement he made that the Trojan wasn't up on the block. He doesn't need Mollwitz, though he could use an infielder.

The Miracle Man is considerably upset over the failure of his club to hit for more than the size of their hat this year. Not one of the alleged big hitters has come through for him. If they don't ere long it's a certainty that George will do some shifting about.

HITS WILL COME.

Failure to hit doesn't trouble Stallings any more than it does the athletes working for him. No person thinks more of a base knock than does Sherwood Magee, and his recent drop hurt the hard-hitting Philadelphian. Magee will find his batting optic ere long and start binging the ball in a manner that tells. The club fielding is the best ever, but the hitting is sadly lacking.

GREGG COMING AND PENNOCK IS GOING

Cleveland, July 28.—Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox has recalled Pitcher Vean Gregg from the Buffalo (International League) Club. Pennock has been sent to Bill Gregg's place. The latter will rejoin his old club at Detroit tomorrow.

INDIANS HELPED SOME

Manager Carrigan Likely to Send Shore in to Make It Three Games in Row for Champs.

Cleveland, July 28.—Bill Carrigan, pilot of the World's Champion Red Sox, will probably call on Ernie Shore to make it three straight from the Indians in the final game of the series this afternoon. Shore wanted to pitch in yesterday's game, which the Red Sox won, 7-6, and is now ready to make the series a three out of four basis. Young Albert Gould is carded to hurl for the locals.

The game was a weird affair in a way, and it wasn't so much the fact that the Red Sox played so well that hoisted victory on Carrigan's standards as it was the poor playing of the Indians. Foster and Coveleskie started the game, but neither finished.

The day was officially known as Coveleskie Day, in honor of the youthful Pole, who has had so much to do with the Indians' success.

BAND HARD TO SUPPRESS.

The band came near putting a stop to the contest; in fact, "Silk" O'Loughlin was on the point of forfeiting the game to Boston because the band refused to stop playing.

The Champions scored one in the second on Walker's triple and Gardner's double, and two more in the first half of the fifth.

The crowd hooted O'Loughlin, but finally the music stopped. Chapman bounced a single off Foster's bare head, the ball rolling to Barry, who tried to make a play at first. Chapman beat the throw and Howard, taking the situation at a glance, scored from second.

That tied it up, but only for a moment, as the Red Sox made Coveleskie like it in the sixth, scoring three runs. Lewis singled and took third on Hobby's bachelor drive, the hit-and-run sign being out. Walker grounded to Gandil. Gardner hit one in the same direction and Lewis was trapped between third and home. He managed to get back to third, but found Hoblitzel there, and the latter was tagged out. Henriksen batted for Scott and shot a triple to right-centre, scoring Lewis and Gardner, and coming home himself when Speaker's throw hit him in the back.

INDIANS KEEP GOING.

The Indians scored a run in the seventh when they might have made two or more. Daly batted for Coveleskie and doubled to right. He stopped momentarily at second and then started for third, but was out, Hooper to Barry to Janvrin, Chief Harold having replaced Scott. Grance followed with a double and Foster was yanked after he walked Chapman.

Leonard went in and he filled the bases with a pass to Speaker. Roth caught one of Hubert's finest and sent it to left centre for what looked like a sure triple, but Lewis made a startling run-ning catch, Graney scoring. That was all for that frame.

The winning run for the Red Sox came in the eighth with two out, Walker lined a double to centre, O'Neill tried to pick him off second, but his throw went wild and "Tilly" scored.

In the eighth Wambsganss and O'Neill singled—it being Steve's fourth safety—and Howard chased both in with a triple. There were none out at the time, but neither Turner, batting for Klepfer, Graney or Chapman could bring Howard across.

GUISTO, MAGNET FOR BIG LEAGUE SCOUTS

Portland, Ore., July 28.—With Louis Guisto as the principal magnet, a whole flock of big league scouts are headed for Portland to give the first baseman the up and down.

Billy Sullivan of the Detroit Americans is already on the job and Ira Thomas of the Athletics is within easy stages.

Judge McCredie, owner of the Portland club, has received word that representatives of the Cleveland Indians, Chicago Cubs and Phillies want to see the big Italian in action.

LEONARD ON WITH WELSH

New York, July 28.—Benny Leonard of Harlem will try to win the lightweight title tonight from Champion Freddie Welsh at Washington Park, Brooklyn.

Leonard is considered the most dangerous of all the contenders for the title Welsh holds, and has many supporters who will back him tonight to win by a knockout.

Leonard is faster than Welsh, has youth in his favor and carries a punch with power enough to stop Welsh. The Champion admits Leonard hurt him in their last fight, but failed to take advantage of his opportunity. Leonard says he realizes this; that he was over anxious.

Welsh appreciates Leonard's ability as much as the little boxer's own supporters. Welsh went to his country quarters to prepare for Benny, something he seldom does for a ten-round bout.

"Billy" Roche will serve as referee.

By BENNY LEONARD,
Rising Young New York Lightweight.

I will stop Welsh inside of ten round. I had him measured the last time and hurt him with a body blow.

I did not realize until too late I had the title in my hands. I am bigger, better and stronger and know Welsh's style now.

New York will have a world's lightweight champion within twenty-four hours.

Yachting Notes

Although the Grayling because of her size looks like a tender to some other boat in Class D, Clarence Nickerson, the Hull schoolmaster, is doing excellent work with his little boat this season. The Grayling is the baby of the "Cat" fleet but she has scored fifteen points this season and is close on the heels of the Dolly III. in the standing.

* * *

The Louise is so far out in front in Class I of the Y. R. C. that it will take a whole lot of hustling on the part of the other eighteen-footers to get back in the race.

Reports are coming out of New York that A. G. Hannan is not relishing the defeats his Nahma is receiving at the hands of the Joyant and that he is now going to carry a "Marconi" rig while racing in the future. The Joyant has proven a wonderful drifter and in light airs has completely outclassed the Hannan sloop.

CAMPBELL SUES THE NEWARK FEDERALS

New York, July 28.—Suit for breach of contract has been against the Newark Federal League Baseball Club on a claim assigned by A. Vincent Campbell, player, formerly with the Boston Braves.

It is asserted Campbell was given a contract last year by Patrick T. Powers, vice-president of the club, providing for a salary of $7,875, and that the contract was renewed last September for a year with a 5 per cent. increase. The complaint asserts the club failed to live up to the contract.

Lively Tennis Play

Garland Is a Winner

Yesterday's uncertain weather conditions so disrupted the tennis tournament at Longwood that as a result of the elements, the tournament which the committee hoped to have down close to the final stages by Saturday will in all probability go through Tuesday next.

JAP A FINE PLAYER.

The most important happening this morning is the finishing of the incompleted match in which Clarence J. Griffin of California and J. J. Armstrong of Philadelphia are the contestants. When they were forced to quit yesterday each had taken a set. Nat Niles and Dick Harte of Philadelphia are another pair who figured in an unfinished contest. In their case also each had won a set and the third stood three games all when the moisture made necessary a discontinuance.

This afternoon the winner of this latter match meets I. Kumagae and the chances of some fine tennis are rare. The little Jap is rated with the best players in the tourney today and he will force either Niles or Harte to go to his utmost limit to win. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the national champion, William M. Johnston, meets a hard opponent in Craig Biddle of Philadelphia.

A FINE CARD.

Today's card is well-balanced, and fine tennis is promised the fans regardless of what hour they visit the courts. There are two feature doubles matches billed, in one of which Wallace Johnson and J. J. Armstrong, meet T. R. Pell and H. Norris Williams, 2d. This should provide an abundance of excellent tennis, for all four are players of exceptional ability. It will be played immediately after Griffin and Armstrong finish their singles match.

Among the unexpected happenings of yesterday was the elimination of G. P. Gardner, jr., runner up in the recent Massachusetts championship, by C. S. Garland, the Yale intercollegiate champion. Garland displayed rare tennis ability in defeating Gardner, and as he is entered in the junior event as well, he is favored to win the latter.

LOOK LIKE WINNERS.

Yesterday Pell and Williams went successfully through two doubles matches, their first victims being L. C. Wright and E. H. Whitney, and their others I. N. White and M. R. Johnson. They played first-class tennis throughout, and by many are favored for the Eastern doubles title.

Fifth round results:

G. C. Caner, Philadelphia, defeated R. N. Dana, Providence, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2, 5—7, 6—1.

Craig Biddle, New York, defeated H. R. Scott, Boston, 6—3, 6—1, 6—0.

C. J. Griffin, San Francisco, and J. J. Armstrong, Philadelphia—Griffin, 6—3, 3—6 and postponed.

I. C. Wright, Boston, defeated G. T. Putnam, Boston, 8—6, 6—2, 6—1.

W. M. Johnston, San Francisco, defeated Roland Roberts, San Francisco, 6—2, 9—7, 6—4.

CUBS SOAKED LIMIT; JOE TINKER OUT $100

New York, July 28.—The Chicago (National League) Club has been fined $1,000, and Manager Tinker of the Cubs $100 for the behavior of Tinker and other Chicago players in the game against Brooklyn at Chicago, July 18.

The appeal of the Chicago team against the decision of Umpire Byron in forfeiting the game to Brooklyn was rejected by President Tener.

Hammer Liked in West Tamed Welsh Last Fall

By RINGSIDE.

According to Ed. W. Smith, pugilistic expert of Hearst's Chicago American and clearly the Middle West's leading critic on boxing matters, Ever Hammer, the hard-hitting Windy City lightweight, who makes his Boston debut at the Arena next Tuesday night, opposed to Johnny O'Leary, the Canadian champion, is bound to please and get further work hereabouts.

Six months or so ago it was a toss-up in Chicago which was the better battler between Hammer and Joe Welling. Howard Carr and Larney Lichenstein, two renowned flatic managers, were the handlers of the rival youths. The Middle West sports hollered for a combat between the boys and they were signed for an encounter at Kenosha, Wis.

The betting was lively, ditto close, being even money take your pick. Welling got just as many calls from the smart ones as Hammer. A hammer and tongs battle was expected and one resulted.

Hammer went over, putting up far and away the superior battle, according to all reports, and having considerable of a margin over Welling at the close. But decisions are not rendered in Wisconsin. So all Ever got was the press calls; no official award.

PUT IT OVER HON. FRED.

With Hammer proving his superiority over Welling, Howard Carr got busy and came on with Hon. Freddie Welsh at Milwaukee. This bout took place early in the Winter and the Chicago experts, without a sob, gave Hammer full credit with having out-stepped and out-fought the champion.

Welling made good with Dutton a few weeks ago. He's now in Jimmie Johnston's stable and boomed up as a big wire in his recent soiree with Walter Butler. As for Hammer, whom the fans are to see next week, he has yet to be seen in an Eastern ring.

He's been matched with a good foe by Miah Murray, and, while the Army A. A. management is not anticipating any particular jam at next Tuesday night's show, they are hopeful Hammer will come through a big sensation so that he can be sent against the stars of the lightweight division later on in the Summer—White, Leonard, Dundee and those sort.

O'LEARY A GOOD ONE.

Hammer and O'Leary have signed to make 135 pounds at 3 o'clock. It is already announced that either Larry Conley or Madden Flaherty will referee the bout. As told by the AMERICAN Wednesday Phil Powers was not picked by the club to handle the Britton-Griffiths battle. Powers only served because Danny Morgan, Britton's manager, held out for him, and, having the star, won his point. Powers is a skilled referee, shining in his picking, but the Triple-A management seems bent on favoring Conley and Flaherty over him.

FLYNN HAS HIS SAY.

Leo Flynn also was in town early in the week. It is his opinion he can help bring back good times at the Arena. Flynn handles an immense string of battlers. Among his best bets are Bill Brennan, the rising young heavyweight, who owns more saves than any other scrapper in the game, and Frankie Mack, the Beachmont 135-pounder.

If is Flynn's forecast that a battle between Brennan and Jim Coffey will shake on with Hon. Freddie Welsh at Milwaukee. This bout took place early in the Winter and the Chicago experts, without a sob, gave Hammer full credit with having out-stepped and out-fought the champion.

Flynn also allows that Mack has never got his just deserts locally. "Frankie is a star, as good a boy of his weight as there is in the game and I know he would come through big for Miah Murray and his confreres if he got the right chance," added Flynn before his departure.

STRONG FOR MASTER MACK.

"Mack can whip Walter Butler any day and he gave Matt Wells a good trimming at Rochester some two months ago. You know, Frankie was good enough to go twenty-one rounds with Ted Lewis at Havana the day before Willard and Johnson went to the mat.

"Why the twenty-one rounds? Because they were tied up at the end of the twentieth and the referees ordered the extra session. Then, he discerned Lewis in front, though I thought the two boys were still locked as a team."

Flynn is still sporting his "rocks" and says that the New York, ditto New England, game was never better than right now. However, he declares he is particularly anxious to "help out" the Armory A. A. and feels sure if it will make it Brennan and Coffey and Mack and Dundee it will play to two pudgy houses and everybody will be feeling good again.

LAST NIGHT IN THE RING.

New York, July 28.—In the feature bout at the Clermont Club of Brooklyn, Young Zulu Kid was disqualified in his bout with Young Benny in the third round.

New York, July 28.—Pat Moore of Memphis, Tenn., had the better of the ten-round bout with "Kid" Goodman of Rockaway at the Arverne Sporting Club.

LINES TO CHRISTY MATHEWSON

You may know all the kinks in the pastime
Which is known as our national game;
You may know all the kinks in the athletes
Who are busy portraying the same.

You may know all the kinks in their muscles,
You may know all the kinks in their heads;
But you don't know the kinks in the heads of the kinks
At the business end of the Reds.

Matty's arm has departed this mundane sphere, but the fact that he was willing to manage the Reds demonstrates that he is gamer than he ever was.

All we can figure out is that Matty thinks a lot of Herzog and that Herzog has a grudge against Matty.

THE SAME OLD CHICK.

We always like to see you win, Chick Evans,
We like your boyant, boyish grin, Chick Evans,
But though it makes our heart enthuse
To see you wear a champion's shoes,
We like you though you win or lose, Chick Evans.

Rat Levinsky expects to fight 1,000 battles. Evidently he intends to take unto himself a wife.

"Fighting," quoth Mr. Levinsky, "is easier work than training." But he fights only heavyweights.

A statistician arises to remark that billiards, not baseball, is our national game. We never knew that solid ivory was contagious.

SAFETY FIRST.

(By Freddie Welsh.)

He who fights too often may
Get licked before he gets away.

We do not know whether Freddie Welsh plays poker, but we have a hunch that he wouldn't open a pot unless he held a royal flush.

ON A SUBMARINE.

The boy stood on the burning deck
In days of long ago.
He'd have to do it now, by heck,
Ten fathoms down below.

It is almost impossible to feel any sympathy for an insurance company, but we cannot help feeling sorry for any firm that has issued accident policies to the Yanks.

J. W. Moran refers to the Cincinnati team as a submarine, but it cannot be classed as a warship. It never blew up anything but itself.

THE GRADUATE.

"Oh, why do you fight?"
Asked a curious wight,
Of a champion pugilist.
"Oh, why do you slap
Other men on the map
With the weight of your strenuous fist?

"Oh, why do you pour
Other pugilists' gore,
And wallop them hard on the brow?"
"I don't," said the pug
With a smile on his mug,
"For I am the champion now."

Mathewson will earn a niche in the Hall of Fame if he succeeds in managing the Reds and Hal Chase at one and the same time.

Chick Evans is beginning to realize the penalty of fame. He had to make an after-dinner speech.

ANCIENT HISTORY.

Frank Gotch has quit the wrestling game.

Mr. Gotch announces that he doesn't care a snap for the honors there may be in being a wrestling champion. Now arises the question: What honor may there be in being a wrestling champion?

Track Mark for Andy Ashland; Mile--2:10 1-4

Northampton, July 28.—This is getaway day for the Short Ship circuit meeting here and the closing card embraces three $500 stake events, the 2:20 trot, 2:17 pace and 2:15 trot.

In the 2:15 trot Koroni, Carnathan and Dr. Kilbourne, three good steppers, figure close together. Dr. Kilbourne is in Irvins Pottles' string and is reported to be on edge.

Andy Ashland, winner of the 2:15 pace on yesterday's program, turned in a heat of 2:10¼, a track record. The average time of the three heats set a New England mark for pacers in the 2:15 class on a half-mile track. A big bid was made for Andy Ashland, but his owner turned it down.

BENNY KAUFF demonstrated that there's no sentiment in business when he connected with the ball in the eleventh and sent Herzog over with the winning run. Matty still has hopes.

Wiley to Ride at Revere on Saturday

George Wiley, the popular Syracuse rider, makes his reappearance at the Revere Cycle track tomorrow night after an absence of several weeks, due to injuries which he received when tossed from his wheel in a spirited contest at the beach oval several weeks ago.

Wiley is himself again, and after many stiff workouts at the seaside track, he is convinced that he is "ripe" for racing once more.

With Clarence Carman as his partner, the Syracuse boy will tackle those two French marvels, Leon Didier and George Beres, in a special forty-mile international motor-paced team race tomorrow evening.

Wood Goes Home; Lannin's Bid Not Rated Attractive

CLEVELAND, July 28.—Smoky Joe" Wood returned last night to his Parker's Glen, Pa., farm, having failed to agree with Owner Lannin of the Red Sox on terms.

It was thought all day Wednesday everything was O. K., but developments yesterday proved this was not the case. Secretary Hiley of the Red Sox said last night he had given Wood transportation to his home.

Riley added that Lannin gave Wood everything Joe asked for, and could see no reason for Wood's refusal to sign a contract.

Wood refused to discuss the case other than to say he and Mr. Lannin couldn't agree on terms.

Kayo Artists on Tonight's Card at C. A. C.

If the Commercial A. C.'s boxing card tonight goes through per program some exhilarating milling should be seen. The bouts of the boys advertised to perform are sluggers and the unexpected has got to happen with a vengeance if there are not to be any knockouts.

Jim McDonald and Kenneth Salisbury, two hard-hitting heavyweights, are to step eight rounds. They should be lots doing. The twelve-rounder is to be rendered by Johnny Wilson, the New York middleweight, who showed to good advantage in his several local starts last Winter, and Joe Farren of East Boston.

Leo Downey and Johnny Morris and Tom Vallan and Young Barclay are the youths billed to have it out in the two six-round numbers.

Their Married Life

"But I don't think you ought to go down there today, Mrs. Curtis," remonstrated Mary.

"But this is the first chance I have had to do something for the club, Mary, and I promised. Yes, I really must go."

"It's so hot you'll be exhausted before you have been out ten minutes. You know how you mind the heat, ma'am." Mary knew Helen pretty well and was genuinely attached to her. If Helen had not been so determined to get out and do something she might have heeded Mary's advice.

The heat did affect her terribly, as she expressed it, and felt like a wilted rag from the beginning of July until the middle of September. But her determination to do something in the world had led her to take an active part in the Current Events Club, and this was the first opportunity that she had had to call on a woman who needed advice.

Helen had dressed as coolly as possible. She wore a frilly blouse and a white linen skirt with a plain little hat. She wanted to be inconspicuous, but she looked sweet and altogether smart, much more so than she imagined. She had the address in her pocketbook, and as near as she could make out, she was to take the subway to Spring street and then walk to her destination in one of the most crowded parts of the city.

Helen knew little or nothing about the way people lived. Of course she had heard indirectly of the poverty and squalor, but she thought these conditions were painted worse than they were, as she knew Warren would be furious at her for taking a trip of this kind, and after she had reached Spring street and began to walk the heat made her head swim.

She reached the house at last. It had a stone stoop and an areaway crowded with pails. Some children, dirty and ragged, played in the gutter, and they stared at her curiously as she passed. An old woman sat on the top step against the grimy door, and as Helen went slowly up the steps she moved a trifle.

HELEN ASKS FOR INFORMATION

"Could you tell me where Mrs. Manpe lives?" Helen asked sweetly.

The woman stared at her, a cunning look in her little eyes. "Mapes, you want Miz' Maines?" she queried. "Fourth floor back; she ain't in a good humor today; better come back some other time."

"All right, it ain't nothing to me, go on up," and the old woman shrugged her shoulders and turned away as though she were washing her hands of the entire matter.

Helen began to climb the ill-smelling stairs. Rubbish was piled in heaps on the landings, and once in a while she caught a glimpse of family life through half-open doors. Women peered at her, and children came out and stared openly. Helen was like a being from another world, but she was determined to see the woman who had set out to see.

The fourth floor was dark and apparently deserted. Helen picked out the door nearest the back and knocked. After a moment there was a shuffle of feet and an unkempt head was pushed out.

"I want to see you," Helen said clearly.

"Well, I don't want to see you. I know who sent you; one of them clubs, where everyone has plenty of money and thinks they ought to butt in on people who haven't got so much."

"But I don't want to butt in," Helen declared. "And besides," she said, smiling a little, "I haven't much money, so you needn't be afraid to let me come in for a few minutes. I'm awfully warm."

The woman was evidently surprised at these tactics and opened the door a little wider. For a moment she stood inspecting Helen from head to foot, and then with a bitter laugh, she opened the door wide enough to enter.

"I suppose you want to ask me about my husband," the woman interrupted Helen's thoughts, "and if he is giving me enough to live on. Well, he ain't, there's another woman now, one of them cheap little girls he met at work. The last woman who came here to see me, wanted me to try to make the place more inviting for him. They said it was my fault, that a woman could do anything these days. Do on, if you have some of that stuff. I'll hear you, then you can get out and leave me alone."

"But I don't want to tell you any of those things," Helen said quickly. "Why should I? I didn't even know your husband wasn't good to you. They didn't tell me."

Helen was thinking rapidly. For the first time in her life she realized what it was to be poor, and to have outside interference coupled with the troubles that came from within. Perhaps the Current Events Club did not realize that in a case of this kind any good that it might do must be accomplished carefully. Already they had done more to make this woman bitter than to help her.

"I was asked to come to see you," Helen explained, choosing her words carefully, "and I thought you might tell me a little bit about yourself and I could tell you a little bit about myself, and we might get to know each other. I think you could help me as much as I could help you."

The woman looked at her incredulously.

"I mean it," Helen went on. "I know what you need. You'd like to make a little money in your spare time, so that you could be more independent."

"What could I do?" the woman said scornfully, although Helen noticed that a trace of interest had come into her face. Again Helen thought rapidly. If the woman could sew, plenty of plain sewing might be had for her. It seemed that what was needed here was a little interest in life, independence, perhaps, surely not patronage. As for improving the woman's domestic affairs, that would come later.

The Biography of a Sinner

Vera Calls Up Norton and Makes Him Believe She Is Still Friendly.

By ANN LISLE.

Copyright, 1916, International News Service.

"I don't understand you, Rex. If you like Mildred—why do you go flying around with that gay crowd? She can't afford to be friends with you if you go about with those other girls."

"She can't afford to be friends with me, anyway, Vee—she decided that long ago. Any girl with sense would know which one of father's sons she'd better tie up to."

I tried to think of the right thing to say to Rex. Six months before I should not have had to try—I should have known—known instinctively. But we were drifting apart now. I suppose even I had a sort of selfish consciousness of which one of father's sons it paid to have as an intimate!

A few days later father and Len went up to the city to select a car. They came home together, jovially, about nine. The purr of a motor announced them. Father had purchased a wonderful big car, almost as stunning as Mr. Francis's gray one. It was a shining, dark maroon, and I could just imagine how adorable Mildred—would look as she sat up in front next to the drivers seat!

LEN HAS THE CAR

An instructor from the company stayed in Roxbrooke for a week. At the end of that time Len was an expert at driving the car—and father had taken the agency for it.

We had jolly parties all through August. But Rex never joined us. It was Len to whom the car seemed to belong—the car was part and parcel of him.

As the Autumn came on the shadow under Rex's eyes grew deeper and deeper. He dragged himself about as if life were hardly worth living. No one seemed to pay much attention to him. He was like an alien in our family life.

Sylvester Gregory stopped me on the street one day as I was hurrying down the block to meet Len and drive home for lunch. "Practice-tion ever, Miss Vera," said he, "and more like your Aunt Lucie. I had rather hoped I was going to be your uncle some day. You won't have the boy?"

"More likely he doesn't want me, Mr. Sylvester," I laughed, daringly.

How to Judge a Woman by Her Hair

There are always the well-known and semi-humorous methods, such as saying brunettes are quick-tempered or blondes are keener in their mental activity. But there is real common sense in just noting whether the hair is well kept to judge a woman's neatness, or in looking at her style of arranging her hair to decide whether or not she has good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good preparation made expressly for shampooing. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthrox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water when your shampoo is all ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles, with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles, while it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist, and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine, as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Advertisement.

The magnificent military figure drew itself up with conscious pride. "I never married, Miss Vera—because I lost your aunt Lucie. The younger generation of men doesn't love like that, do they?"

"Oh, what a wonderful romance. Won't you tell me about it some day, Mr. Gregory?"

"Yes, if you have the time to listen to an old man's story. But I've always wanted you for a niece, Miss Vera. That would make up a little bit. Are you going to disappoint me?"

There in the broad daylight of Main street he kissed my hand.

A sudden determination was born of that courtly old soldier's attitude. I would send for Norton. I couldn't win except by propinquity. If Myra was with Norton all the time and out of pique I refused to see him, what more natural than that he should feel a growing interest in Myra and a waning one in me?

NORTON MAKES A PROMISE

I ran into the corner drug store and telephoned the bank. When Norton came to the telephone I assumed my most coquettish tone and reproached him for neglecting me—quite ignoring the fact that I had refused to see him or listen to any of his explanations. That flattered Norton's vanity and he was at once ready to make an appointment with me for that afternoon.

I have always had a weakness that is supposed to be exclusively masculine—a sort of emotional fickleness that makes me want what I can't have. Norton seemed suddenly very charming just because Myra thought he was!

I went out to the car very soberly. "Len, I'm not going along this afternoon when you and Mildred motor down to Monroe," I said quietly.

"Why not?"

"Oh, I just don't want to."

"Not even to meet Jim Donaldson and the Semples and that Loring chap they've talked so much about? You know they're going to met us half way on the road from New York."

"No—you go alone. I'm not in the mood," I said.

And nothing could persuade me to change my mind. I wonder if things would have been different if I had gone along with Len and Mildred?

"So you're not coming along?" said Len, as we finished dinner. "Can't persuade you to change your mind, Vera?"

"No—you can't. I've something important to attend to, Len. Shall I help you—tie your scarf or anything?"

I am glad I said that.

"Almost as interested in Old Len as you are in Rex," laughed he.

That gave me a moment of bitterness. I though suddenly of what this party for Mildred, and all their other trips together meant to Rex—how about our Rex? Lost happiness, I answered bitterly. "Now I won't help you."

That was his good-bye.

As soon as Len had gone back to the factory and I had seen our big maroon car spinning out the State road on its way to the shore, I hurried to the telephone and called Norton. "I'm all ready, Norton," said I.

At just a minute or two after three Norton drove up to the house in his little new roadster. I have never been able to explain even to my own satisfaction just why I had to see Norton that day. Possibly it was sheer coquetry—the desire to prove to Myra that her triumph had been won only because I permitted it.

Perhaps it was because I felt the absolute need of showing to Roxbrooke that I was not so unattractive and lacking in line that first Corinne and then Myra could steal my admirers from me. At all events my meeting with Sylvester Gregory had started up some queer little mental process in my mind and I had to illustrate to myself that I was not lacking in power.

THE REASON WHY

But I think at the base of the whole matter lay my feeling that Jim Donaldson was only amusing himself with me and that I must get the upper hand with some man!

"This seems like old times, Vera. Glad you haven't forgotten me in spite of your popularity with city beaus," said Norton.

I managed to put a tender note in my voice—the sort of note with which Jim Donaldson would address me. "It's you who have forgotten me, Norton."

"No, I haven't, Vera—but a fellow has to be decent to his old friends. It's a shame Mormonism isn't more fashionable." He laughed self-consciously.

I thought how foreign all that was from Jim Donaldson's manner. He would never have acknowledged to any girl that he gave her but a divided allegiance. I had no way of guessing how divided Jim Donaldson's allegiance was!

Does It Pay to Be Neighborly?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Are you one of the people who have lived for ten years in a great apartment house and have no idea who occupies the floor above them, the floor below, or, perhaps, even the apartment across the hall?

Nowadays very few people are friends with the "folks next door." The kindly little world in which people shared the joys and sorrows of the neighborhood has grown from simple town ways to over-dignified city ones.

Down in the village from which your grandmother came you shared whatever of good or ill came to the people in the houses around and, incidentally, their butter, or eggs. When you happened to run short; and there was a great deal of happy warmth in hearts and manners.

City life has changed all this. Now you don't know anybody until you've been introduced, and, unless you want to lose your social position, you put on your hat and gloves when you are going to the shop around the corner!

There can be nothing more disheartening than the chilly state of things which meets the family coming in to the city from some warm little village of ten thousand people, inquisitive, but altogether neighborly and friendly people.

Sitting in lonely, lofty dignity and ignoring all the pleasant people about you seems to be considered quite the correct thing in the city. It isn't correct—it's only dreary and foolish and stodgy and altogether absurd.

One of the tragedies of city life is that far, far too many of us have learned to be cruelly suspicious of people we don't know, and so are afraid to give the benefit of the doubt to folk about whom we have not an absolute written guarantee of respectability.

A few years ago in the Middle West one used to boast that one always believed a man honest unless he proved himself a thief. But in the big cities the rule seems to be to believe people thieves until they prove themselves honest! Can't we recover some of the old neighborliness of heart and spirit which will make it possible for us to give a friendly greeting to the people who live about us? Can't we learn to feel that the joys and sorrows, the hopes and fears and the moments, great and small, of those who have been brought close to us in the congestion of city life are really close to our hearts, too?

So many of us fear to be neighborly. We imagine our kindly motives will be questioned and our friendly impulses put down to all sorts of self-seeking, cold-blooded mercenary or otherwise evil-intentions.

Everyone in the world is more or less lonely—looking and looking for understanding and sympathy. Can't we bring a little of the neighborliness of the country into our city life?

WILSON TO TAKE HAND IN STRIKE ON RAILROADS

By International News Service.

Washington, July 28.—Secretary of Labor Wilson today announced, following the Cabinet meeting, that he was going to take a hand in trying to prevent the threatened general strike of railroad employes.

The department's board of mediation and conciliation will call a meeting within ten days to attempt to adjust all differences, at which labor leaders and representatives of all the big railroads affected will be present.

It was understood that the Cabinet discussed the threatened strike and was unanimous in the belief that the government should do everything possible to prevent a walkout.

SULZBERGER & SONS NOW WILSON & CO.

The Boston office of the meat packing firm for years known as the Sulzberger & Sons Company issued a statement today announcing that the firm's name had been changed to Wilson & Company. The change of name took effect yesterday. The company in its statement says:

The corporation formerly known as the Sulzberger & Sons Co. of America has been succeeded by Wilson & Company, Thomas E. Wilson, president. The company has been established over fifty years, with packing plants in New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Oklahoma, Albert Lea, Nebraska, Fort Worth, Los Angeles, also a plant in South America, and branches and distributing representatives in principal cities in the United States and foreign countries.

Mr. Wilson has been in the packing house business for over twenty-five years, and is considered one of the foremost packing house executives in the country. Sales of the company are considerably over $100,000,000 annually.

Mr. Wilson visited Boston personally last week and assured us that the new company bearing his name would be better, bigger and busier in every way.

TWO ARE INJURED IN DEDHAM CRASH

John S. Paddington of Pleasant street, Millis, and Keith R. Hutchins of Hyde Park, were autoing along High street, Dedham, in Paddington's car today when a machine in front of them stopped suddenly. Paddington whirled his car to avoid the other machine, and struck a telephone pole. Hutchins was thrown through the windshield, and both Hutchins and Paddington were cut and bruised.

The other car, belonging to the Edison Light Company, was driven by William S. Parsons of East Dedham.

TWO SLAYERS HELD, TWO SURROUNDED

Laurel, Del., July 28.—Four negroes who killed two men of their own race at Vienna, Md., last night and then fled here, were surrounded by a posse in a house in Laurel early today.

Dynamite not being available, the police decided to charge the barricaded negroes. As the attack began, Chief of Police Bloodworth was shot twice in the arm, and a spectator wounded. Two of the men, Neil Pride and William Clemmons, were captured, but their companions escaped into nearby woods. There they were again surrounded.

M'CLURE SAYS HE IS PRO-ALLY

By International News Service.

Liverpool, July 28.—S. S. McClure, the American publisher, who was detained by the authorities for twenty-four hours on the American liner Philadelphia on his arrival here, while inquiries were made, is now staying at Buxton.

"The British authorities have not placed any difficulties in the way of my crossing France," he said. "I am very strongly pro-ally. All the articles over my name have been very strongly pro-ally."

WOMAN IS FREED ON DEATH CHARGE

No probable cause was found today by Judge Sullivan in the Dorchester court on the manslaughter charge brought against Mrs. Winifred F. Buckley of Hartford street, Roxbury, a well-known suffrage worker. Mrs. Buckley was arrested after her automobile had collided with a bicycle ridden by Aaron Spielack of No. 122 Devon street, Roxbury, throwing Spielback to the ground and inflicting injuries from which he died later at the City Hospital.

BIG SHARK TAKEN INTO GLOUCESTER

Gloucester, July 28.—Captain George Tarr of the power fisherman Lena May is back in port today with a shark weighing 500 pounds, captured eight miles off Straitsmouth Shoals. The shark was captured by using a huge iron chain and hook. During the tussle the shark several times nearly wrecked the boat. The shark was sold to Boston parties. It was of the mackerel variety and not a man-eater.

HARVARD MEN GET FRENCH WAR CROSS

Julian L. Lathrop of New Hope, Pa., and Walter H. Wheeler of Yonkers, N. Y., members of last year's sophomore class at Harvard, both of whom are members of the American Ambulance Corps, have been awarded the French war cross. Both distinguished themselves by their daring work while under fire.

Excessive humidity in the air in the last few days was responsible for the attack of the Custom House clock. The humidity served to damage the fiber upon which rest the contacts of the master clock, so that the latter had to be replaced. The fiber, made of pinne macbe, resembles like a collar and caused the loading on the four faces of the clock to tilt different times.

IS GRATEFUL TO THE NEW REMEDY

Sharon (Mass.) Lady Joins the Hosts of Testifiers For the New Stomach Remedy

Plant juice, the new herbal stomach regulator and digestive compound, is the most wonderful remedy ever discovered. There is no known medicine to equal it. Those who are having the terrible stomach, liver, kidney and blood troubles, caused by indigestion, should waste no time in getting this wonderful remedy.

MRS. FLORIE PECK AND SON.

Of our city people, namely, stomach, liver, kidney and nervous disorders. Many state that for years they have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney trouble, are now enjoying perfect health, as their numerous testimonials show.

In a recent statement Mrs. Florie Peck, who lives on Walpole street, Sharon, Mass., says she has hosts of friends in this city, said:

"For 11 years I have suffered with stomach trouble in the form of indigestion and dyspepsia, and my food fermented in my stomach. I was all bloated with gas which caused such pain that I dreaded to take any solid food into my mouth. I could not even keep broth or water on my stomach. I had palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, was dizzy at times and could not sleep. I also could not sleep at night and got into a very nervous state. I was terribly constipated, was told that I had nervous indigestion, and lost 20 pounds in weight. I was in such a nervous state that the least little noise would startle me. I had taken everything in the line of medicine, but got no relief, until I began to take Plant Juice, and I am now happy to state that it has entirely cured me. I have a fine appetite, it has toned my stomach right up, so that I can now sleep the night through, and I feel my own health is back. Plant Juice is a grand medicine."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where he is introducing to the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were fairly firm in New York today, but were below the highest level of the morning. War order issues had been influenced by the foreign selling of railroads was reported. Trading did not grow in volume. The unofficial word was the Commission house attendance was small.

Gains at 12 o'clock included American Sugar 1, Butte & Superior ¼, Anaconda ¼, Utah Copper ¼, Kennecott ¼, American Can ¼, American Locomotive 1¼, Baldwin ½, Crucible ¼, Industrial Alcohol ¼, Mexican Petroleum ¼, Studebaker ¼, Reading ½, Southern Pacific ¼, Lehigh Valley and Union Pacific ½.

Among declines were American Smelting ¼, General Electric ¼, Maxwell ¼, Willys-Overland ¼, Canadian Pacific 1¾, New Haven ¼ and Baltimore & Ohio ¼.

Among unchanged issues were New York Central, Distillers, Inspiration and Marine preferred.

SWIFT PACKING A FEATURE.

Swift packing common was a strong issue in Boston, advancing 1¼ on small lot transactions. The majority of stocks were higher than at the close yesterday. But there was little life to the market.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Atlantic, Gulf & W. I. 1, Mexican Petroleum ¼, U. S. Smelting, American Zinc ¼ and Copper Range ¾.

Swift was off ¼.

CURB STOCKS ADVANCED.

Business was quiet on the Boston Curb, but a majority of issues made gains. At the end of an hour gains included Eagle and Blue Bell, Porcupine Premier 1 cent, Fortuna 1 cent, Hoyt 3 cents and Trans Steel ¾.

APATHETIC AT THE OPENING.

The irregularity apparent in New York at the opening with the market lower and narrow. Fluctuations were confined to a narrow range. The market was as uninteresting as dull. Within a few minutes after the market opened issues to advance a point or more included Studebaker, Car & Foundry, Cruible, Baldwin and Industrial Alcohol preferred. Net profits of the last named on new shell orders are estimated at more than $4,500,000. Industrial Alcohol was another issue to climb. It is forecasted that its earnings decline nearly due to disinclination of certain large consumers to buy against the time shares and rails were quiet.

The Boston market was even quieter than usual, but there were no declines. There were a number of small lot transactions in Boston Curb stocks, but on price change. Gulf common soon recovered its fractional loss and showed a gain of ¼. Utah Copper was strengthened with the one in New York. Gains were also over American Zinc and United Fruit were each up more than a point.

EXPANSION IN BRIEF.

In the year-end report by Jose, Robinson & Co. their operating revenue increased $4,458,000 over the year ended June 30, 1920.

The Charlestown Trust Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ cents.

For the 6-mil year Delaware, Lackawanna & Western reports a net loss over American Zinc and United Fruit were each up more than a point.

Industrial Alcohol net earnings for the first half of this year were $1,500,000, an excess of more than $1,000,000 over the net for the corresponding 1915 period.

The combined net earnings available for dividends of the Massachusetts Electric Companies subsidiaries for June were $304,825, an increase of $50,385, or 19.80 per cent compared with June a year ago.

Directors of Curtiss Aer Has Consolidated directors at the September meeting may declare an extra dividend on the $5,000,000 of stock on a 52 a year basis. Its earnings for the first half of 1916 were at the rate of 75.25 a share.

DANISH INDIES ONCE LOST TO U. S. BY VOTE

Lenox, July 28.—Henry White, who as secretary of the United States embassy in London in 1902, under Secretary of State Hay, conducted the negotiations for the purchase of nine Danish West Indies for $5,000,000, was asked at the golf links here to make a statement concerning the failure of the Danish government to ratify the deal at that time. He said:

"It is true that I conducted the negotiations for the purchase of these islands for the United States. I was then in Washington with the information and knowledge that the Danish government and the islands. Former negotiations during President Grant's administration had been spurned. I approved to the Assembly of Denmark, but had not been carried out. I was called to proceed with negotiations and I did so. My report is a matter of record. It is interesting to read. I was then the government House in Copenhagen, but had proceeded in keeping us out of war, when others, notably Mr. Roosevelt, would have plunged us headlong into the awful struggle now engulfing Europe.

Motor Notes.

By J. C. KERRISON.

Fred R. Bump, the New York manager of the Studebaker Company, has been in Boston for several days. Studebaker representative yesterday. Messrs. Bump and Jordan were sales agog associated with each other at the Franklin factory, their partnership identified with the E. C. Bass, and then with the Studebaker Corp. Their association both have made an enviable reputation.

Mr. Bump is returning from a two weeks' tour through New England, which he says, is the finest touring sections in the country.

FITZGERALD SAYS WILSON WILL WIN

Kennebunkport, Me., July 28.—President Wilson as the defender of the people's interests and his administration as the greatest the United States has ever seen, were lauded here by Governor Mayor John Fitzgerald of Boston at the annual outing of the St. Lawrence Society. He predicted Wilson's re-election and said:

"I do not say that Mr. Wilson and the Democratic party have never made any mistakes. They have made many mistakes, but when the final test of the Democratic administration and its ability to stand on its record is made the people will be found to be overwhelmingly in favor of the president's interests, and that in spite of difficulties such as no other President of the United States was ever confronted with, Lincoln excepted, he has succeeded in keeping us out of war, when others, notably Mr. Roosevelt, would have plunged us headlong into the awful struggle now engulfing Europe.

The American Nation Does Its BIG Tasks Well

Lord Kitchener's Words an Answer to the Financial Interests Which Say the United States Cannot Own and Operate Its Own Public Utilities as Efficiently as the Other Great Nations

RECENTLY it was asserted by Lord Kitchener that the British Empire must have a military institution for the training of its officers equal to our American Military Academy at West Point.

This is an interesting compliment to the efficiency of the American government in one of its great institutions. It also has a significant bearing on a question which, sooner or later, will command the exclusive attention of the American people. It is one of the thousand answers which can be made to the charge of the financial interests that the United States cannot own and operate its own public utilities as efficiently as the other great nations of the world own and operate their public utilities.

Every great civilized nation owns and operates its telegraph and telephone companies, except the United States. Nearly every great civilized nation owns and operates its railroads, except the United States. If our people would get over the smug complacency with which they regard the American progress as the greatest in the world and would actually consider the truth about our progress, they would wake up with a start to realize that in spite of our great lead over the other nations fifty years ago, we have already been overtaken by them and passed by them, and with respect to progress in the development of sociological reform, in the extension of the activities of the government in behalf of its citizens, have now fallen far behind the modern governments of the world and are now to be counted in the class with Spain and a few of the smaller, backward nations of Europe and the less progressive republics of South America.

To return to the praise which Lord Kitchener gave our Military Academy. It has been the principal contention of the gentlemen who have made or hope to make large private fortunes by manipulating the railroads, and of those timid citizens who regard whatever gentlemen of high finance say as gospel, that the United States, for some unknown reason, is not as capable of operating a great business as the big nations of the world. But when you compare the capacity of our National Government in the things which it undertakes to do in competition with other countries, we find that the FACTS show that not only are we worthy competitors but that we SET AN EXAMPLE to the other nations.

Some opponents of the public ownership of the railroads, telephone and telegraph companies may say that England has not proved a great military nation. It is true that her failures in the present war have been humiliating and disastrous, but England is capable of recognizing a good thing when she sees it and her military authorities, well acquainted with the best European military institutions, recognize our West Point as an eminent example of efficiency.

On the other hand, England is regarded as the greatest governor of colonies the world has ever known. But the American Government has successfully competed with England even in the colonial field. The most efficient colonial government is the government that does the most for its colonies. Not only does the result of our occupation of the Philippines, of the Panama Zone, of Hawaii, of Porto Rico and our temporary occupation of Cuba compare favorably in its beneficent results with the British rule in her colonies, but the facts are beyond doubt that our American Government has wrought twice the benefactions in half the time for our possessions that England under comparable circumstances has wrought for her possessions.

If an American wants to feel proud of his country, he wants to study the good we have done in the Philippine Islands, where we have banished ignorance and disease and are bringing in its place education and health, where we have been successfully combatting the poverty of a country without industry and a peasantry without land.

Thanks to the courage of Gifford Pinchot, the distinguished and patriotic Progressive; Glavis, the fearless public servant, and Louis D. Brandeis, the tireless "people's lawyer," the United States Government has wrested from piratical hands of Wall Street the great wealth in the public domain of Alaska and is now opening that wonderful country to ALL the people BY A GOVERNMENT-BUILT AND OPERATED RAILROAD and by other incidental GOVERNMENT ENTERPRISES.

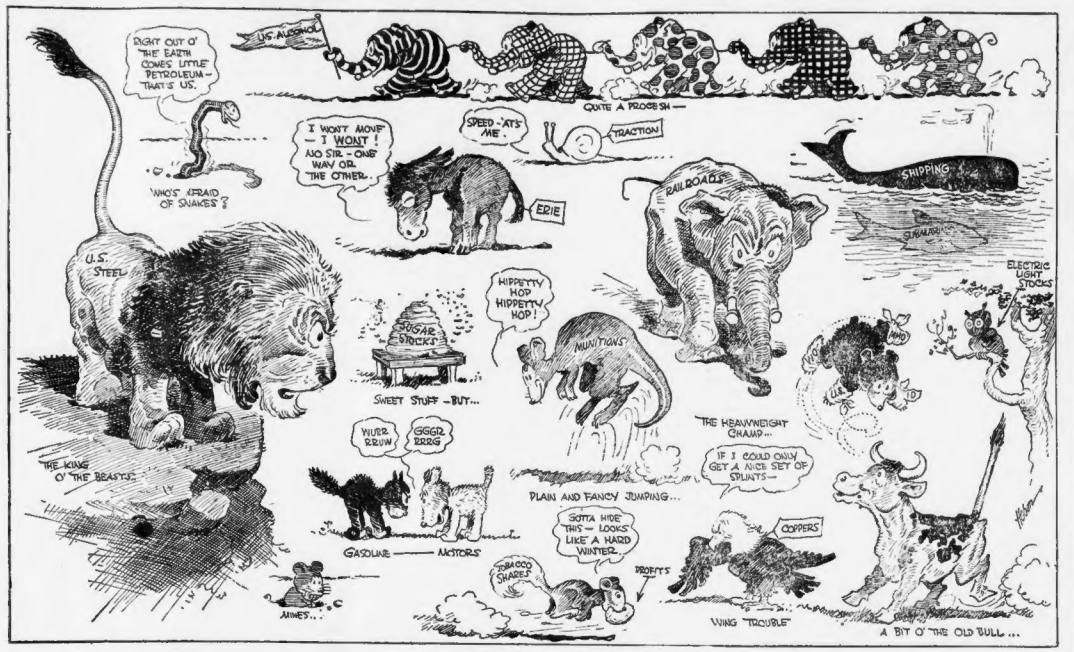
The whole world knows the story of the Panama Canal, knows how, when all private enterprises had failed, the United States Government, under the leadership of an army engineer, educated at West Point, conquered nature in one of her most unpregnable fastnesses, intrenched by tropical marshes, tropical heat, insects and disease. The whole world recognizes that in the building of the Panama Canal the United States Government has performed the world's greatest engineering feat.

The development of Hawaii, Cuba and of Porto Rico under the guidance of the United States Government is more wonderful than the development of any colonies of England, for England's best colonies have grown by her neglect.

Our government in character is like a great many boys. It needs to carry a load; it performs its BIGGEST tasks best. The fault of our government is that it does not extend its functions and thus by undertaking to do what OTHER nations do for their OWN people, compel itself to do its task well from the very size of the task.

A distinguished and thoughtful American citizen once said, "Of half tolerable evils the American people are the best natured and the most patient in the world, but of the wholly intolerable they have less patience than any other people." If we were to own and operate our railroads, telegraph and telephone companies as the other great nations are operating theirs, it would be a job of the size that the American people always do well, because we should HAVE to do our best. We know from our West Point, our Postoffice, our Parcels Post, our Panama Canal, our work in the Philippines, Hawaii, Cuba and Porto Rico that OUR best is as good as the best of any other nation.

KING OF BEASTS MAKING WALL STREET ZOO BEHAVE



By announcing net quarterly earnings of $81,126.048 and declaring an extra dividend, the lion of Wall Street (United States Steel) served notice on the bulls and bears and all the other animals that have been misbehaving that they must be more orderly for a time. The French bond issue must be sold, and there are other countless millions to be raised for the allies to enable them to buy more war material in America. The bears have been frightening the public away from the Zoo, and the lion insists that they must be quiet for the sake of the gate receipts.

Producers of Moving Pictures with a "Moral" Should Beware

THERE is a moving picture at the Majestic Theatre entitled "Where Are My Children?" The thesis of the play is the question of birth control. It is assumed that the purpose of the play is good. The moral which it teaches is undoubtedly good.

But it is a serious question whether the exhibition of an evil under such circumstances for the purpose of teaching a moral does not do more harm than the moral can correct.

At least there is a large respectable proportion of the community which believes that the agitation of such subjects is distinctly more harmful than any reprobation of it is beneficial.

The producers of these plays with a "MORAL" ought to beware of any tendency induced by their large box office receipts to increase the number of such plays. In the long run it will arouse a large and influential section of our community and spell trouble, not only for those who especially offend, but for all moving picture interests.

Thoughts by the Way

One of the greatest pangs of misfortune is the thought that we may have to lose the friendship of those whom we believed to think much of us.

There is a tendency to keep away from persons in trouble for fear that some favor may be expected or asked.

This is not the right sort of spirit.

If you are a person of this sort, it is time for you to change—and to change now—while the opportunity lasts. Tomorrow may be too late.

There is not enough sympathy in the world. We are becoming colder every day. By your manner you are advancing this very condition. Why not take a new tack?

When you see a man in hard luck, imagine yourself in the same boat, and think how gratefully you would welcome the sympathetic smile of a friend. Just a pat on the back is helpful now.

Perhaps you have nothing to give but sympathy. You think it is not much, but try the effect of it on that afflicted friend.

Scatter a little sunshine and see how it will warm your own heart. Just a smile or a pleasant word. Don't flee at misfortune's call.

The Thompson Boy

By William F. Kirk

THE Thompson boy ain't going away
For no vacation anywhere.
That's what he told us kids today;
He said he didn't care.
He said that kids what went on trips
All came back with mosquito marks,
Or else got lost, or drowned on ships
Or ate by awful sharks.

US kids we told him all of us
Was going to a great big lake
And fish and swim and take the bus
If there's a bus to take.
He said he didn't care to fish
And he could swim down at the pier,
He said if he could have his wish
He's always stay right here.

THE Thompson boy he makes believe
The buildings is some great big trees,
With birds that sing, and everything—
With grass and flowers and bees.
He listened to us kids today
When all of us was talking low.
I guess if he could have his way
He'd kinda like to go.

The Savings Bank Yourself

By Ada Patterson

A LITTLE gray woman came out of one of the city savings banks. It was a day of rain, and she shivered in the cutting wind. She clutched her bank book between her fingers that thrust themselves out of gloves that were past mending. As I passed her I saw that she was carelessly rather than poorly dressed.

A rip in her sleeve disclosed a sharp elbow. For lack of the stitch in time that saves nine the hem of her skirt dragged in the mud. Her heel caught in it now and then, impeding her walk and adding an extra strain upon her nervous system. A shabby little hat, faded as to straw and the flowers on it, tilted with a woeful attempt at rakishness over her ear. Her face had the grayish pallor of one ill nourished. She turned into a factory building and took her place in the march of the army of manual labor.

For how long? I wondered. Employers are impatient of down-at-the-heels - looking "help." They think it reflects upon the institution. And so in great measure it does. But we don't worry about the employer. Doubtless he is well able to take care of himself. Most of them are. But the little gray woman burdened my mind.

She and her late weighted my spirits because while she had been making a deposit in one bank she was so sadly neglecting another. She had patronized the City Provident Bank and was plainly indifferent to the Bank of Self.

I believe in saving. I consider thrift one of the cardinal virtues. A savings fund assumes a concrete form to me. I see it as a silo like those which the careful men of Holland build about their little country to keep it from being washed away by the sea. Adversity is a hungry sea of mountain-high waves. The savings bank account keeps them back.

But I fear the little woman was trying to build her dike too high. Or that it would not have needed such height had she put more into the Bank of Self.

The wage-earning woman should deposit money in a savings bank against the day of days of dread. The day of illness. The day of "trouble with the boss." The day of being "laid off" indefinitely. The day of waning strength which we call growing old. The day when with the caprice of commerce or the march of progress the demand for her kind of work is lessened or when its rewards diminish. To that proposition there can be no dispute from one of sane mind or sound character.

But consider the case of the little woman who gripped her worn savings bank book with fingers that showed through her gloves. She did not put enough into the bank which is herself. She should have deposited in the Bank of Self more and better food. That her skin should have had the clearness and the dash of rose which are tokens of health. She should have made more deposits of clean, invigorating air. She should have deposited enough of time to mend that rip in her sleeve and to have secured that hem in her shirt, that each step might not be a jar upon her nervous system and possibly fling her face onward on the sidewalk. She should have deposited enough of cheer and courage to keep her shoulders up and her face set bravely toward the future.

Don't acquire the whipped look. It invites whippings. Put money into the savings bank, but don't forget to deposit enough in the bank Yourself to keep you solvent.

The Fly and the Sick Baby

How scientific investigation has proved the house fly is the best friend of infantile paralysis and the most cruel enemy of the baby is set forth in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.
